NASA selects Pan American

By EDGAR PEREZ

Pan Am World Services has been selected by the National Aeronautics and Space Administration for negotiations on renewal of facility operation services contract at National Space Technology Laboratories in Hancock County.

Congressman Trent Lott reported this week the new cost-plus award and incentive fee contract to be negotiated will become effective Oct. 12, 1983.

Pan Am World Services, a subsidiary of Pan American World Airways, has been providing support services at NSTL since Oct. 12, 1978.

Lott said a contract estimate of $54.9 million will cover a one-year period as well as options for two additional one-year periods.

The negotiations will include provisions for two additional one-year extensions, a NSTL spokesman reported Tuesday, bringing the total contract period to five years.

The fourth and fifth years are not included in the $54.9 million contract estimate, she noted.

Services provided by Pan Am at NSTL include operation and maintenance of government facilities for NASA and nearly 20 other U.S. agencies resident at NSTL.

The services also include those required by NASA to support the Space Shuttle Main Engine Test and Certification Program.

Other bidders on the contract include Bendix Field Engineering Corp. of Columbia, Md.; Boeing Services International of Cocoa Beach, Fla.; Global Associates of Oakland, Calif.; Mercury Consolidated, also of Oakland; Planning Research Corporation-Holmes and Narver (a joint venture) of Cocoa Beach; and Sverdrup Technology, Inc. of Tullahoma, Tenn.

Rippetoe's sentence affirmed

By ELLIS CUEVAS

The Mississippi Supreme Court affirmed the conviction of R.D. Rippetoe on charges of false pretense on Wednesday in connection with the repairs to Gulfview Elementary School after it was struck by a tornado, according to Ronald Peterson, Hancock County sheriff.

Peterson said, "Rippetoe, 37, whose address is 799 West Second St., Pass Christian, was convicted by a July, 1981 jury trial on charges of false pretense in connection with Gulfview's repairs. He was awarded the main contract after the May, 1980 tornado."

"He was sentenced to one year in the Hancock County Jail, fined $14,520 and required to make restitution in the amount of $4,840 to the Hancock County Board of Education. Six months of the jail sentence is suspended subject to his good behavior and subject to working faithfully on a public service works projects with the city of Bay St. Louis, while serving the six months," Peterson added.

While the case was on appeal, Rippetoe was out on bond, but was re-arrested Wednesday, Peterson said.

Marijuana plants worth half a million seized

By JUNE M. HEYDT

If anyone tends to think the Hancock County Sheriff's Department personnel or the Mississippi Highway Patrol don't earn their money, they should follow sometime when they go out into the field on a marijuana seizure.

Approximately 12 men trekked at least a mile and a half through woods near Fenton Monday to chop down, with machetes, six patches of marijuana growing in the woods.

The seizure consisted of plants worth half a million dollars, according to Ronnie Peterson, Hancock County sheriff.

It took the men almost ten hours to chop the weed down and carry it back through woods too dense for vehicles to get past.

The discovery was made after the sheriff's department received an anonymous tip where two of the patches were growing, said Alvin Ladner, investigator with the sheriff's department.

Ladner said, "After we got the tip and through further investigation and gathering intelligence, we drew up a game plan."

When news of an earlier seizure in the Fenton area of 319 plants was released, sheriff's department personnel were hoping to spot the harvesters returning to salvage what was left, said Ladner. Unfortunately after four days of stalking out the area, no one appeared, he added.

Joe Price, chief Highway Patrol investigator for the Southern District, said, "With the cooperation of the public and local agencies we're confiscating an average of 1,000 plants a week."

Price is spearheading the patrol's marijuana eradication effort called, "The Mississippi Domestic Marijuana Eradication Program."

He noted the need for cooperation from the public to make this program work.

Helicopter pilot Terry Amacker and Investigator David Brooks, acting as spotter, through their aerial patrols have spotted over a million dollars worth of marijuana in the coastal counties.

Price said, "For years we thought it was being smuggled in but, actually a lot of it is being grown right here in the United States."

Two U.S. deputy game wardens, C.J. Cameron and Walter A. Fowler of the U.S. Department of Wildlife, also helped with the drug seizure and final removal of the plants.

Cameron and Fowler donated their time and also their truck to move the plants.

Fowler said, "This stuff that looks like an ordinary weed growing in the woods can work on your lungs, nasal passages, throat membranes, and eventually destroy your brain."

Fowler continued, "Alcohol is bad but, it works primarily on the oxygen in your body, whereas marijuana destroys the body."

"The marijuana growers of today are just replacing the moonshiners of yesterday," said Ladner.

MORE FOUND LATER

As the Highway Patrol helicopter was returning after spending the better part of the day pulling the marijuana in Fenton, a plot of 90 more plants was discovered from the air in Ceasar northwest of Fenton.

Daren Johnson, 23, of Route 2, Box 151, Ceasar, was arrested and charged with cultivating marijuana after they discovered the patch growing near his house. He was placed in jail under $5,000 bond.

The estimated street value of the 90 plants is $30,000, said Peterson.

Earlier in the week a Biloxi man was arrested and charged with cultivating marijuana with the intent to deliver.

Price identified the man as Murray Moran, 28. He was booked in the Stone County jail and released under $40,000 bond.

Price said officers seized 150 adult marijuana plants from five plots in the wooded area. He estimated the street value to be $150,000.

Businessman offering Waveland land gift for city-county offices

By WAYNE DUCOMB JR.

A Waveland businessman is offering to give Hancock County and its city governments some 16 acres to build new government office facilities.

However, the offer contains three conditions which would alter either the physical location or governing structure of the local entities.

Nicholas (Mack) Haas, a Bay St. Louis attorney representing businessman John F. Auderer, this week presented the proposal to local governing bodies.

The Hancock County Board of Supervisors and Bay City Council both this week tabled the offer pending a joint meeting of the three local governments. Haas said he planned to present the offer Wednesday night to the Waveland Board of Aldermen.

The acreage is located about 700 feet north of US-90 in the vicinity of Our Shopping Center and Waveland's new blue water tower.

National Flood Insurance Program rate maps indicates the property elevation above sea level is about nine feet at the north end of the property and gradually rises to about 20 feet at the highway.

Auderer is planning a commercial subdivision in that area named Government Park which would include 23 commercial lots starting at the highway and fronting a 100-foot-wide boulevard named Government Boulevard which would extend from US-90 northward along the lots to the property he is offering the local governments.

The three alternative conditions for the property donation include:

—Transferring a 9.25-acre parcel west of the boulevard and a 6.25-acre parcel east of the access way to the county if Bay St. Louis, Waveland and Hancock governments merge into one "metro government";

—Giving the county the larger parcel for a Courthouse and the smaller land area for a Bay-Waveland city hall providing the two city governments consolidate;

—Or donate the larger parcel for the Courthouse and the smaller land area for a Waveland City Hall if the cities do

Disgruntled Bay teachers ignoring advice to seek jobs elsewhere

By WAYNE DUCOMB JR.

Disgruntled Bay St. Louis Municipal Separate School District teachers are apparently not leaving the system as recommended by the Board of Trustees president.

Walter Turcotte, board president, at a May 9 meeting in which teacher representative Linda Reeves asked the district to provide a salary supplement, told about 20 complaining teachers attending the meeting to seek jobs in other school districts or states.

Trustee Reginald Robinson agreed, with Turcotte's statements, but the other board members refused to comment.

Since that meeting, school district minutes show that seven teachers have resigned. Of those, three held supervisory positions.

Those former supervisory personnel include Dr. Brenda Scaffidi, special education supervisor; Glen Page, band director; and Jerry Spell, high school boy's basketball coach and physical education teacher.

The district employs about 95 teachers.

The school board minutes show that 10 teachers resigned from May, to August, 1981 and five left the system during the same months in 1982.

During fiscal year 1980-81, 11 teacher resignations were accepted by the trustees; in 1981-82, eight resignations were approved; and in 1982-83, 11 were accepted.

When asked if the resignations resulted from Turcotte's comments and lack of board action regarding the teachers' request at the May 9 meeting, J.D. McCullough, superintendent of education, said Tuesday, "I think this has nothing to do with this."

"I think teachers are looking for more pay and better jobs, but this has nothing to do with those comments," he stated.

Anita Jacobs, a North Bay Elementary School teacher and Bay St. Louis Association of Educators president, reported Monday, "I really can't say because the teachers who have resigned have not come to talk to me about it during the summer."

"Some I know have gotten better jobs in Mississippi, but they haven't talked to me on the matter," she stated.

Reeves, who is former association president and a North Bay teacher, said Tuesday that she also did not know if the resignations were a result of the May 9 meeting.

But she added, "Some of the resignations might be for pay and benefits

Kidnap hearing slated for Bay animal warden

By JUNE M. HENDT

A preliminary hearing has been set for 6 p.m. Thursday for the Bay St. Louis animal warden, Gregory Lee Brown, 26, on charges of kidnapping, according to Donald Dorn, Waveland police chief.

According to Dorn, Donna Zitterkopf, 40, of 206 Hoffman Lane, Waveland was leaving for work from the home of a friend when Brown, who had been waiting in the woods, forced his way into Zitterkopf's car and made her drive to his home at 408 Bookter Street, Bay St. Louis.

Brown was held in Hancock County Jail and later released under $10,000 bond.

Zitterkopf, who works for Hancock

General Hospital, had been staying with a friend in Waveland when the incident occurred.

When Zitterkopf didn't show up for work Monday morning her employers called the police department.

Since Zitterkopf was known to be a former girlfriend of Brown's the police department decided to check Brown's residence since he had called the Bay St. Louis police station earlier to say he would not be coming to work, said Dorn.

When police arrived at the Brown residence around 8 a.m. the two walked outside, according to Dorn.

Bay St. Louis Mayor Larry J. Bennett said, "I've had to dismiss him until further investigations are made, effective immediately."

Money Talk

By Norine Barnes

Business opportunity schemes are especially popular since the unemployment rate is high. Be careful when investing your hard-earned money, especially in large amounts.

Business opportunity fraud takes many forms, but the most common include franchises, distributorships, work-at-home opportunities, or pyramid schemes.

Cases in which Mississippians have lost thousands of dollars include such schemes as raising earthworms or chinchillas at home, vending machine distributorships, investments in energy-saving products, or sales of self-motivation courses.

According to Allain, the first warning sign of potential fraud is the requirement of a large initial payment to a company for assistance in starting your own business and promises of assistance and/or inventory.

If a venture offers the following elements, be sure to investigate thoroughly before investing your money:

1. "guaranteed" profits and/or "guaranteed" market
2. request for a large initial investment
3. promises to buy back your product after you manufacture it

4. exclusive territory
5. refunds
6. complete training
7. marketing assistance
8. company advertising

Fraud occurs when some or all of these promises aren't kept, and in ventures such as business opportunities, consumers must remember that profit and loss depends on the company's willingness to fulfill its promises as well as the investor's own efforts and business risks.

CARL BANDERET: Hancock County coroner for the past eight years.

Retired from LAMANA PANNO FALLO Funeral home in New Orleans, La. after serving 6 years. Also served 21 years in Gulfport Veterans Hospital. When called to the residence to perform my duty as coroner, I immediately ask the family of the deceased which Funeral Director they would like me to summon. The coroner in this particular part of his service must show no partiality or political persuasion.

I am the first coroner in the State of Mississippi, out of 82 counties to have solved the problem in case of an emergency, of transport and storing bodies in other counties when autopsies are required by installation of the first county-owned mortuary refrigerator in Mississippi at Hancock General Hospital.

Devices to control insects reported to be ineffective

By PHILIP BREEZE
News Editor
Cooperative Extension Service

Claims by manufacturers that ultraviolet bug traps will rid as much as an acre of mosquitoes and other bothersome insects just aren't true according to a manufacturer who builds the devices for industrial use.

"Claims that a light trap will clear an area 300 feet in circumference are just pure out and out fraud," said Gilbert, president of Don Gilbert Industries.

"Anybody with any sense knows you can't control mosquitoes with one little light. The visual range of a mosquito is seven feet. It's nice to watch and know you're killing some mosquitoes, but it won't control them," he said.

Don Weidhaus, lab director at the U.S. Department of Agriculture Insects Affecting Man and Animals Research Unit in Gainesville, Fla., said the devices are useful for surveying a mosquito population. In fact, that is why they were developed to begin with.

"The traps were initially developed in the 20s and 30s as a survey tool, for every 100 mosquitoes in the area it may get 10 of them. When we use tagged insects we're lucky to get 1 or 2 percent," he said.

Weidhaus has so little faith in the devices as an effective control that he won't bother to test them. He explained that their ineffectiveness is so obvious to entomologists that it would be a waste of money to carry out any experiments on the traps as methods for control of mosquitoes.

Jerry Stubbs, of the Enforcement Division of the Pesticides and Toxic Substances Branch of the Environmental Protection Agency said the need to test substances before devices has put the ultraviolet light traps far down his agency's list of items to be tested.

The devices may simply be worthless, he explained, while substances may be potentially harmful.

The federal government requires pesticides to be tested before they are marketed, but no such requirements apply to ultraviolet or ultrasonic devices.

Stubbs did say that, "my opinion is that in some instances they (ultraviolet devices) attract more insects into an area that would otherwise be there."

Dr. Doug Gaydon, an entomologist with the Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service, said that the ultrasonic devices, claimed to rid an area of rodents as well as insects, have been tested and been found to be worthless.

Stubbs has reviewed completed tests of sonic insect control devices and said, "they flat out don't work." Of tests still underway on the ultrasonic devices, Stubbs said, "there are reasons to believe that those claims are exaggerated."

Dr. Ted Brook, also with MCEs, said that common sense should tell people that many claims are untrue.

"How is a device supposed to be effective on rats but not on hamsters or gerbils, their first cousins? How's the machine supposed to tell the difference?" he said.

Gilbert, whose company has installed more than $3.5 million worth of the light traps inside a grocery chain's warehouses, said the devices do work inside once access to the area by insects has been eliminated.

Gilbert used 160 of the devices, each four feet square, in one warehouse and still did not significantly affect the insect problem until steps were taken to keep the insects out of the building in the first place.

Federal law prohibits manufacturers from making claims that their product is "environmentally safe" unless the Environmental Protection Agency has tested the product and found it to be so.

Manufacturers of insect control devices who make questionable claims may or may not be in violation of the law, depending upon just how carefully or uncaringly the claims were made.

Consumers who purchase a device and are not satisfied with its performance should first demand a refund from the manufacturer, then send a copy of the label or advertisements of the product to the regional office of the Environmental Protection Agency.

The regional office for Mississippi is in Atlanta. Complaints should be sent to the attention of Roy Clark, Chief of the Pesticide and Toxic Substances Branch EPA, 345 Courtland St. NE, Atlanta, Ga. 30365.

NECAISE REPLIES

TO CARANNA ADVERTISEMENT

This paper has received a complaint from the attorney for Mr. Albert Necaie, incumbent candidate for District Attorney, objecting to the advertisement run on August 11, 1983 by Mr. Cono Caranna styled, "Isn't It Time We Had Some Good News For A Change." The complaint addressed to this paper appears to be based upon the Mississippi statute which provides that, if a news story or editorial reflecting on the honesty, integrity, or moral character of a candidate in a campaign is run, the newspaper shall, on written request of the candidate or his agents, print a statement by the candidate or his duly accredited representative giving the candidate's reply.

The statute says that the statement should be printed in the exact language which the candidate or his representative shall present and shall be printed as near as is practical on the same page, in the same position, and in the same size type and headlines as the original editorial or news story reflecting on the candidate had been printed. This paper has not printed such an editorial or news story but with reference to the advertisement above mentioned and in compliance with the spirit of the law, is running Mr. Necaie's representative's statement in the exact language as contained in the letter as follows:

"The Sea Coast Echo wishes to advise that the article prepared by Mr. Cono Caranna and published in our newspaper styled

'Isn't It Time We Had Some Good News
For A Change?'

is an expression by a candidate seeking to be elected to a public office.

This paper does not contend nor does it condone, any allegation that Mr. Albert Necaie is or has ever been the subject of any investigations himself.

This is to further advise that the various articles or copies thereof, that appeared in the subject advertisement prepared by Mr. Cono Caranna were prepared and the format handled by Mr. Caranna and his advertising company, Guice and Guice.

Further, we do not charge that Mr. Necaie has ever presented an appearance of wrongdoing nor do we contend that Mr. Necaie has not been a law abiding and effective District Attorney."

Several fishermen tell us the winds have been bad, but the trout should be back.

We are sure, if they do come back, many will be again wading for them.

A friend of ours, Barbara Dickenson called Wednesday morning to say she had just landed a five foot gar on a very light reel and rod from her dock.

She sounded as if she was ready for bed after the one and half hour battle with the big gar.

She resides on Breath's Bayou and fishing this year has been very bad compared to other years.

It seems that when the sillways are opened in Louisiana, the effects last a very longtime on our fishing.

It can only get better, well we hope so.

Small-business owners can be pleased about the progress made by the Reagan Administration to help them get more export business. U.S. embassies the world over have been instructed to take a keen interest in all American small businesses interested in exporting, and the U.S. Commerce Department is fully committed to doing everything possible to encourage and foster exporting among small businesses.

Even with such a positive approach, more needs to be done to get American small business into foreign markets, according to Sen. Rudy Boschwitz (R-Minn.).

Sen. Boschwitz has introduced an amendment to the Export-Import Bank reauthorization bill (S. 869) to set aside percentages of Eximbank loans for small businesses. The Boschwitz measure would guarantee for small business six percent of all Eximbank loans in 1984. That percentage would increase in steps to 10 percent by 1990.

Sen. Boschwitz also wants a program to provide lines of credit to any combination of small and medium-sized banks, export trading companies, state finance companies, export financing cooperatives or other export financing institutions.

His amendment would require the Eximbank to promote small-business exports in cooperation with any and all entities of the federal government and private sector organizations. Additionally he would require an annual report to Congress on the effectiveness of the set aside percentages, the small-business financing programs and the Eximbank's efforts to promote small-business exports.

Sen. Boschwitz is being supported in his bi-partisan effort by Senators Mack Mattingly (R-Ga.), Jim Sasser (D-Tenn.), Alfonse D'Amato (R-NY), Alan Dixon (D-Ill.) and John Glenn (D-Ohio).

The Commerce Department estimates that there are 20,000 small manufacturers with capability to export that do not do so. Secretary Malcolm Baldrige has pointed out that in most foreign countries, small and medium-sized businesses are the main thrust of export endeavors. It is time for the U.S. to move into the same competitive arena. It is imperative that small firms export more on their own to increase jobs and improve the balance of trade figures in favor of the U.S.

A nationwide investigation in 1980 by

The Council of Better Business Bureaus of 55 work-at-home promotions revealed that those wanting to supplement their income by investing in work-at-home opportunities were losing their money to unscrupulous promoters using misleading advertising claims.

The investigation showed that advertisements promising hundreds of dollars for a few hours work were simply lures by the advertisers to sell information on how to set up your own business or conduct the same scheme as the advertiser's.

No actual employment existed. So, think again, is it really worth your time?

High death rates
at animal shelters grim,
but not unusual

Sea Coast Echo
Bay St. Louis

Dear Sir,

Following up Geri Richardson's letter re adoption/death rates at the new Hancock Animal Shelter, I should like to quote a few figures recently put out by the New Orleans Society Prevention of Cruelty to Animals:

- 17,871 brought-in in 1982;
- 13,674 euthanized;
- 3,832 adopted;
- 431 claimed; and
- 384 held for rabies observation.

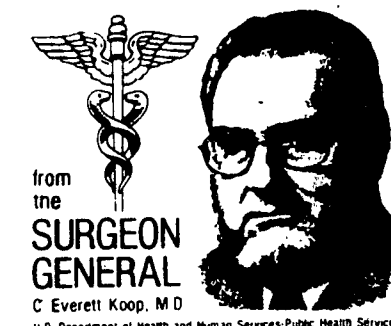

No comfort, it only reveals what a heartbreaking problem it is.

So by all means face up to it with your own pet —spay/neuter and whatever money or other contribution you can make to the Humane Society.

Join it, and most important, tell your elected officials that you support funds for the shelter.

Sincerely

Diabetic Retinopathy

If you have diabetes, or if you know someone who does, then you should know that diabetes can cause serious eye problems, including blindness.

The most common ocular complication of diabetes, and the leading cause of new cases of blindness among young adults in the United States, is diabetic retinopathy.

Diabetic retinopathy damages the retina, the light-sensing membrane that lines the back of the eye. Fortunately, many cases of diabetic retinopathy can be treated with a laser, and loss of vision often can be prevented.

Since this disease has few, if any, symptoms in its early stages, it is vitally important that people with diabetes have a specialist who can diagnose and treat diabetic retinopathy examine their eyes annually. This is the only way for them to find out if they have this condition or if they need laser treatment.

The importance of these annual examinations cannot be overstated. Long before the person with diabetes even suspects an eye problem, a careful examination of the eyes may reveal subtle but important changes that signal the presence of diabetic retinopathy.

As a matter of fact, 40 percent of diabetic individuals show signs of retinopathy that are detectable during such an examination. These signs include changes in the small blood vessels that nourish the retina. The vessels may leak fluid, causing retinal swelling and mildly blurred vision, but, most often, early diabetic retinopathy causes no symptoms at all.

For about 80 percent of those who have diabetic retinopathy, the disease never advances beyond this early stage. But when it does progress, and when blood vessel abnormalities in the retina are left untreated, severe visual impairment or even blindness can result.

In this outpatient treatment, powerful, precisely focused beams of light from a laser are aimed at many spots on the diseased retina. The technique appears to interrupt the disease process and prevent the development of additional harmful changes in the retina.

Twenty-three medical research centers across the country are participating in this clinical trial, called the Early Treatment Diabetic Retinopathy Study (ETDRS).

The ETDRS centers are listed in the booklet Diabetes and Your Eyes, which is available from the National Diabetes Information Clearinghouse, 805 15th Street, N.W., Suite 500, Washington, D.C. 20005. Enclose $2.50 for postage and handling, when writing to the Clearinghouse for this publication, and include a self-addressed mailing label.

Remember, if you have diabetes, your eyes require special attention. Do talk to your doctor about diabetic retinopathy and protect your vision with regular eye examinations.

Federal Reserve viewed as 'engine of economic destruction'

EDITOR'S NOTE: The following article, entitled "We're Still on The Roller Coaster" by Charles D. Van Eaton, professor of economics at Hillsdale College is supplied to the Sea Coast Echo by Public Research, Syndicated of Claremont, Calif.

Theme: Our obsession with interest rates plus the responsibility of both the White House and Congress on matters of the federal budget deficit have turned the Fed into an engine of economic destruction.

In his masterpiece dealing with business cycles, the great Austrian economist, Joseph Schumpeter, observed that Capitalism is that form of private property economy in which innovations are carried out by means of borrowed money, which in general, though not by logical necessity, implies credit creation. That was written in 1939.

But this is 1983 and, while innovations still constitute a critical source of credit demand, they are only a small part of the demand side of the credit market.

Economic innovators — the classic entrepreneurs who are the only real creators of wealth in a market economy — now have to take their place in line with credit card users, car buyers, home buyers, commodity speculators, established businesses, and the federal government for a piece of our shrinking credit supply.

Every little corner of our economy is there and we are and have been, as economist Paul Craid Roberts puts it, an economy strung out on credit.

It is no wonder that interest rates are viewed as the most important price indicator of our economic health. But despite, or maybe because of, their importance, interest rates are evidence of "easy money."

Thus, any period during which interest rates are rising is a period when those captured by the conventional view — which means most humans and all politicians — demand that the Federal Reserve expand the money supply.

Of course when interest rates are falling the same people should insist that the Fed contract the money supply. But since we live in a nation addicted to credit no one really gets upset when interest rates fall.

But the conventional wisdom is wrong. The market rate of interest, by itself, is a deceptive indicator of the degree of restraint being exercised by the Federal Reserve.

As the famous Swedish economist, Knut Wicksell, wrote in 1907, "the rate of interest is never too high or too low in itself, but only in relation to the profit which people can make, and this, of course, varies.

In one word the interest rate on money is, in reality, very often low when it seems to be too high, and high when it seems to be too low."

If Wicksell were writing today he would have to add to the notion of profit earned by investing borrowed funds the additional element of inflation hedging — the practice of borrowing to purchase consumer durable goods, land, and other sterile assets in an effort to beat inflation.

The conventional wisdom may believe that restrictive monetary policy causes interest rates to rise, but those who are suppliers of credit know better.

When the Federal Reserve announced on July 22 that the basic money supply had increased by $300 million, instead of falling $1 billion to $2 billion as the "experts" had predicted, bond prices fell and interest rates rose.

The drop in bond prices was a rational response from the supply side of the credit market.

Such clear evidence of a rapidly rising money supply was correctly interpreted by the suppliers of credit as a harbinger of future inflation.

Once the market senses that the foundation has been laid for more inflation, suppliers of credit become cautious and demanders of credit become ambitious.

Interest rates rise. It is not "tight money" which causes interest rates to rise. It is the opposite: rising interest rates follow "easy money."

After having fought the good fight from late 1979 to late 1981 by reducing the rate of credit expansion and breaking the spiral of inflation, the Fed has reversed course.

The money supply began expanding at an 8.5 percent rate through 1982. Now, since the end of 1982, the money supply has been expanding at a 14 percent annual rate.

Sure it helped accelerate the economic upturn — but it is going to be short lived.

The economy cannot accommodate a 14 percent money growth rate without inflation. By falling back into the "fine tuning" trap which gave us the double-digit inflation of the 1970s, the Fed is on the verge of snatching defeat from the jaws of victory.

But it is not altogether the Fed's fault. Our obsession with interest rates plus the responsibility of both the White House and Congress on matters of the federal budget deficit have turned the Fed into an engine of economic destruction. We simply have not learned how to get off the economic roller coaster.

Isn't It Time We Had Some Good News For A Change?

As our chief law enforcement officer, the District Attorney should be an example of a law-abiding citizen. He should work hard against crime. Avoiding even the appearance of wrongdoing.

The District Attorney should take the lead in criminal investigations — instead of being the subject of investigations himself.

We can't do anything about most of the bad news we read in the paper. But we can do something about this.

years. So, as our District Attorney, he'll make sure law enforcement officers will work with the District Attorney's office — instead of working around it.

Let's elect Cono Caranna.

We're off to a good start. But the District Attorney's race isn't over yet. On Tuesday, August 23rd, let's go to the polls and vote. Let's elect Cono Caranna, District Attorney.

And that'll be some good news — for a change.

Here's some good news.

On August 2nd, the majority of the voters of Harrison, Hancock and Stone Counties voted to make a change in the District Attorney's office. And that's some good news.

It means people are tired of putting up with the cloud of doubt that hangs over our community. It's a bad reflection on everybody. And it's unfair to the rest of our honest, hardworking public officials.

AUSTRALIA'S ANIMALS

The National Geographic Special "Australia's Animal Mysteries" examines the extraordinary animals of Australia, many of which exist nowhere else in the world, in a rebroadcast at 8 p.m., Wednesday, Aug. 24 on the Mississippi ETV Network. The documentary also can be seen at 1 p.m. Friday, Aug. 26 and at 10 p.m. Sunday, Aug. 28. It was first seen on ETV in February.

In an urban wildlife sanctuary, cameras capture tourists posing for pictures with one of Australia's most gentle and beloved creatures, the koala. At one time, aboriginals believed that koalas were the spirits of lost children. National Geographic's cameras focus on Australia's familiar favorites, too. The kangaroo, for example, can leap as much as 25 feet in a single bound by storing energy in its leg muscles.

Viewers may also peer into the world of bulldog ants, lyrebirds, wombats, flying possums, fearsome lizards, vicious Tasmanian Devils and the amazing-looking platypus.

ry schools architect says:

Junior high work delay unforeseen

By WAYNE DUCOMB JR.

The Bay St. Louis Municipal Separate School District architect reports unforeseen problems have delayed a small renovation project at Bay Junior High School.

J.D. McCullough, superintendent of education, at a special District Board of Trustees meeting Monday reported J and S Electric Co. of Poyune was contracted on June 13 by the board to renovate two restrooms and replace four entrance doors at the school gymnasium for $18,500.

He said the project was to be completed before school began Monday.

But Trustee Cyril Glover said his inspection of the school found the project was far from complete.

Walter Turcotte, board president, suggested some sort of penalty be imposed against the contractor.

McCullough said the work crew broke electrical wires and cut off power to two classrooms.

Rock Zimmer, J and S Construction Division manager, Wednesday reported all questions regarding the project to Wagner.

Wagner explained the project is behind schedule because wood rot was discovered and materials ordered have not yet arrived.

The board at the Monday meeting approved a $500 change order in the project to replace rotted baseboards discovered by J and S workers in the restrooms.

The architect said J and S work crews are attempting to complete a restroom serving a special education class by the end of this week.

No penalty can be imposed in the project because none was set out in the contract, Wagner reported.

He explained that on such relatively small jobs that time overrun penalties are not imposed because in this instance the contractor probably would have increased his bid by $1,000 to absorb any fines.

Wagner reported the contractors are awaiting the delivery of new restroom partitions and steel gymnasium doors.

The architect said this week he explained the situation to Turcotte.

Also in reference to school inspections, Trustee Betty Diboll reported problems with restrooms at Waveland Elementary School.

She said urinals in one of the boys restrooms are corroded and should be replaced and wall tiles are missing as well.

She also reported three doors in one girls restroom toilet area are missing and also should be replaced.

Diboll said she also discovered an unpleasant odor in the teachers' restroom.

Otherwise, the school is in perfect condition, she reported.

Diboll noted the floors and cafeterium are 'exceptionally clean.'

Trustee James Ginn reported his inspection of Bay Senior High School found a persistent roof leak problem in the gymnasium lobby area which is apparently weakening the tile floor below.

He praised the cleanliness of the school cafeteria and addition of marine biology and bookkeeping to the curriculum.

Trustee Reginald Robinson said his inspection of North Bay Elementary School found everything 'pleasant' and that 'everyone seems to be on the ball over there.'

McCullough reported North Bay's cafeterium stage area has been renovated.

In another matter, the board met in executive session for 35 minutes to discuss personnel.

McCullough noted a committee is formulating a policy establishing certain conditions and times a teacher may resign after having signed a re-employment contract.

The board also recently approved amending its employee sick leave policy to allow teachers seven days for such leave and two days personal leave time.

(Prepared by the Mississippi State Bar. Some legal rights may vary from locality to locality. Always consult an attorney when in doubt about your rights.)

Q: What are the general origins of juvenile law?

A: At the turn of the century, lawmakers determined that they should take your offenders out of the adult criminal justice system and place them in specialized juvenile courts.

The aim of juvenile law was to rehabilitate, rather than to punish.

However, by the 1960s it was perceived that this form of juvenile justice was often unfair and arbitrary because sentences varied widely and often were more severe than adults would have received for the same crime.

Further, the system deprived juveniles of their constitutional rights, such as written notice to prepare a defense.

Q: How does the court decide if the rights of a child should prevail in a legal proceeding or if the rights of the parents should prevail?

A: This is one of the most difficult issues to resolve in juvenile justice. Various supreme court rulings have determined three guides about children's rights that lower courts must follow in making their decision.

The first is that parents have the primary responsibility to raise their children.

The second is that the state has the responsibilities to children and can intervene and act as "parent" if the children are abused, neglected, abandoned or their parent's lifestyle is considered to be inadequate or inappropriate for raising children.

The third aspect of children's rights is that as "people" they have rights of their own and as "individuals" they have rights in relation to the family and to the state.

Q: What are some of the legal rights and responsibilities granted when a person turns 18?

A: When a person turns 18, he or she is eligible to vote and can register for local, state and federal elections.

At this age, young people have the right to make contracts, such as a lease agreement or credit purchase.

However, if they fail to meet the terms of that contract, they can be sued. Another right—and responsibility—is to own and to control their own property and to control the money they earn.

Q: What steps must a public housing project take to evict a tenant who has not paid his rent?

A: To evict a tenant for non-payment of rent, the law requires that a public housing project must give a tenant fourteen days written notice, stating that the tenant's rent is overdue and must be paid.

The notice must also state that the tenant is entitled to a grievance hearing on the question of overdue rent.

If the tenant requests a hearing, the housing authority must provide a hearing and notify the tenant of the results of the hearing prior to beginning any eviction proceedings.

Q: Can a public housing tenant who is current in his rental payments be removed by a housing authority?

A: Although a private landlord can terminate a tenancy at the end of a lease or by giving proper notice, a public housing authority cannot terminate a tenancy unless good cause exists for the termination.

A tenant can be evicted only if he has violated an important provision of the lease.

In order to remove a tenant for violation of a lease, the public hearing authority must give the tenant thirty days notice, in writing, stating the reasons for termination of the tenancy. In addition, the notice must inform the tenant that he is entitled to a grievance hearing to determine whether he has violated the lease.

Q: Is a public housing authority required to repair a tenant's apartment?

A: Yes. Unlike private landlords in Mississippi, a public housing authority has a legal duty to maintain a tenant's apartment in good repair.

because these are better in other school districts."

McCullough said all of the resigning teachers have been replaced except Spell, whose resignation was received by the board at a recent meeting.

At that meeting, upon questioning by Trustee James Ginn, McCullough noted that Scaffidi's replacement does not possess a doctoral degree, but does possess a master's degree.

McCullough noted a committee is formulating a policy establishing certain conditions and times a teacher may resign after having signed a re-employment contract.

The board also recently approved amending its employee sick leave policy to allow teachers seven days for such leave and two days personal leave time.

Fighting and Winning For A Better Mississippi Future

Attorney General Bill Allain has an action plan to build a better future for Mississippi. His battles against unfair utility rates, against dumping nuclear waste in Mississippi, and against legislators' serving on State boards and commissions have shown the type of Governor Bill Allain will make for Mississippi. He will always stand up for the people.

As your Governor, Bill Allain will fight for:

• Education: Bill Allain will work for a strengthened vocational education system, for an education trust fund, and for better teachers' salaries. He will appoint strong, pro-education people to the new Lay Board of Education.

• Jobs: Bill Allain will set up a job bank and seek new and expanded industry to provide jobs for unemployed Mississippians.

• Law Enforcement: Bill Allain wants more staff in the State Bureau of Narcotics and a drug education program in our schools.

• Farmers: Bill Allain has proposed a low-interest equipment loan program for farmers, processors, and seafood fishermen.

• Fair Utility Rates: Bill Allain's record against unfair utility rates is clear — he won't stand for it. He has already pledged to fight the phone company's plan to double your rates.

• Senior Citizens: Bill Allain will establish a senior citizen discount program with local merchants.

Bill Allain has fought and won for you before. Let's keep him winning for all Mississippians. Vote on August 23 to make Bill Allain your fighting Governor.

Bay mayor, wife file Chapter 13

Bay St. Louis Mayor Larry Bennett has filed for financial reorganization in U.S. Bankruptcy Court in Biloxi.

According to court records, Bennett and his wife, Joan C. Bennett, filed the request Monday under the Federal Bankruptcy Act, offsetting action by 13 creditors for at least 15 days.

By filing a Chapter 13 request, the Bennetts have 15 days to file a schedule of payments to the creditors.

Once that schedule is filed, a judge will decide if their schedule is acceptable.

If the schedule is not filed within that time frame, the case will be dismissed automatically and creditors will be allowed to take legal action to recoup their debts.

The Bennetts listed their creditors as the City of Bay St. Louis; Gulf National Bank; Hancock Bank; two accounts with Merchants Bank; Mississippi Power Co.; Peoples Federal, and West Jefferson Hospital in Marrero, La.

Bennett was hospitalized at West Jefferson in August 1982.

The creditors are physicians and a private individual.

City Hall records showed that as of July 31, the Bennetts owed utility bills on their home at 403 Citizen St. and on commercial property located on Central Avenue in Bay St. Louis.

A spokeswoman for bankruptcy court said that no record of the amount of debts involved will become a part of the court records until the schedule of payments is filed.

Bay Council to apply for Jobs Bill grant

By JUNE M. HEYDT

The subject of houses in desperate need of rehabilitation was brought before the Bay St. Louis City Council at their meeting Tuesday night by Geraldine Lang, chairman, citizens advisory committee and president of concerned citizens.

Lang told the board that there are houses that cannot benefit from the program because they are in such bad condition they require more than the $10,000 limit.

Lang requested that the mayor and city council amend the Housing Rehabilitation Plan and raise the maximum grant limit to $15,000.

Lang said, "The people who are the most needy are the very ones who cannot benefit because of the grant limit."

Ron Murray, Ron Murray Consultants, Inc., told the council the 1981 Housing Rehabilitation Plan amendment 2.3 Special Cases specifies that under no circumstances will grant awards for special cases exceed the $10,000 grant limit.

However, Murray also showed a letter from Tommy James, housing rehabilitation specialist, stating that within section nine of the plan are found, "Program Amendment Procedure." James stated in the letter that if the city is going to pursue this action to please follow the proper procedures.

Council requested Jody Gex, board attorney, to look into the matter and review it. Council also asked that Murray study the problem.

In other business, Murray presented a report on the 1983 Jobs Bill. He said that applications for the grant will be due to the Governor's office of federal-state programs, office of community development no later than Sept. 9.

Murray said the city is applying for a total of $426,828. The funds will be used for gas line renovation and drainage improvements.

The board passed a resolution authorizing Mayor Larry Bennett to sign the 1983 Jobs Bill.

Also in other business, the council agreed to place oxygen machines in City Hall and the police station at a cost of $20 a month per unit.

Bennett reported on the loan from Farmer's Home Administration and said the next step is to set up a meeting with the engineer, bond people and FHA personnel.

Bennett also asked the council to pass a resolution to pay for the plumbing in two houses where sand has filtered through the water lines.

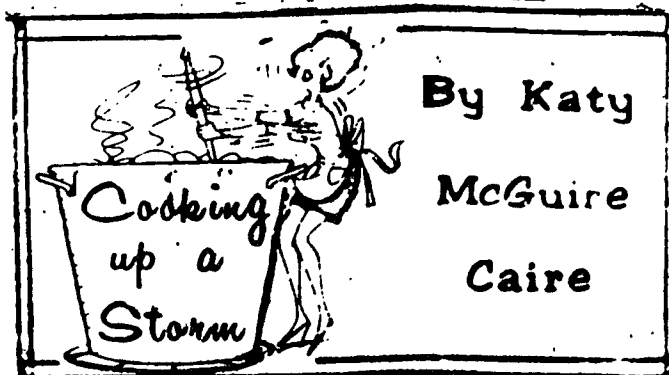

Bennett said he got an estimate from a plumber for $544.56 to replace faucets and valves.

Council asked the mayor to get two more estimates from other plumbers. The matter will be placed on the next city council agenda.

Further in other business, the council passed a motion to add $2400 to the police department budget for crossing guards.

The board authorized City Clerk Ed-die Favre to advertise for bids for the overlaying of streets in the city.

The meeting was recessed subject to call back by the city clerk.

Remember when pork was really a "no-no" in the good old hot summertime? Of course, times and methods, not to mention super-refrigeration and the "new" pork as compared to the "old" heavy, heavy pork, has made a difference...so that many of us have learned to enjoy the porkers year 'round.

Especially just now...when just about every market around has special prices on pork roasts and chops to suit every taste. And pork is versatile; just remember the cardinal rule: you must be sure to cook pork well, as underdone pork leads to trouble.

Here's an easy, tasty, pork dish—it's

SWEET CHILI CHOPS
6 to 10 lean pork chops
2 or more large onions, sliced
1 or a little more bottles of chili sauce

Dashes of pepper, salt if desired
If your pork chops aren't all that lean, trim them as needed. In baking dish, put a layer of pork chops, top with onion slices, pour some of the chili sauce over. (Incidentally, or rather, not incidentally at all, the chili sauce is the old-fashioned sort like grandma used to make, and many cooks still make, with a bit of a ketchup taste...not the hot pepper chili.

Continue layers until all chops are used, cover the dish and bake at 350° for 45 minutes or so, until the chops are cooked through. Serve with rice. (Six servings).

My daughter-in-law, Sue McGuire, makes a delicious skillet variation of this. Here's Sue McGuire's Skillet Special

6 to 8 lean pork chops
Onion, green pepper slices as needed
Lemon slices as needed
Medium can V-8 juice
½ cup dry white wine

Braise the chops in a heavy skillet, seasoning to taste with salt and pepper. Top with onions, pepper and lemon slices. Pour the V-8 juice and white wine over. Cover and simmer about 45 minutes or so, or until the chops are tender to the touch of a fork. (Four to six servings). Serve with rice and a green salad. The lemon slices give added flavor to the dish, and also serve as a colorful garnish. (Copyright, 1983).

A DOG'S LIFE: Stress and Your Dog

Helpful Information From The ALPO Center For Advanced Pet Study

Some important links between diet and a dog's ability to handle stress have been pinpointed by researchers at the University of Pennsylvania School of Veterinary Medicine.

The research team studied racing sled dogs under the stress of competition. They found that dogs fed balanced diets of meat and meat by-products coped with stress better than dogs fed diets high in carbohydrate.

The balanced and fortified meat diets, they report, resulted in higher red blood cell levels. These dogs had greater ability to withstand the rigors of exhaustive stress from racing.

Diet alone is not the whole answer, the researchers say. They point out that dogs involved in much less strenuous activity than sled racing can also suffer stress. Home pets endure stress from being left alone, from irregular care and exercise, and from strange environments among other situations.

Pet owners should provide their dogs with regular feedings, plenty of fresh water, exercise, understanding and reassurance.

Mississippi Power sponsoring synthetic fuels test program

SYNTHETIC FUEL—An engineer examines a sample of the synthetic fuel which has been shipped to Mississippi Power's Plant Sweatt near Meridian for use in a six-week experimental test burn. The liquid fuel — contained in a train of special tank cars — was produced from coal at facilities in Kentucky and Washington.

FUEL SYSTEM—Only minor modifications will be necessary at Mississippi Power Company's Plant Sweatt for a six-week test burn of synthetic fuels. Among the changes will be installation of this piping for a fuel forwarding system — a system that will allow the fuel to be delivered directly into the plant's boilers.

A major test of synthetic fuels will begin within the next several weeks at Mississippi Power Company's Sweatt Electric Generating Plant five miles south of Meridian.

This research represents the next key step in providing an alternative energy source for the nation's oil-fired power plants and industrial boilers.

Sponsored by Mississippi Power Company, Southern Company Services, and the Electric Power Research Institute, the project will help evaluate the performance of liquid fuels produced from coal in power plants which currently burn oil. The test is the final stage in an EPRI program which has included similar research at facilities in California, Maryland, and Pennsylvania.

Both Mississippi Power Company and Southern Company Services are subsidiaries of the Atlanta-based Southern Company — the parent firm of one of the nation's largest electric utility groups.

The companies of the Southern electric system began their involvement with synthetic fuel research in the early 1970s.

Over the past decade, the Department of Energy and EPRI — the research and development arm of the electric utility industry — have provided more than $60 million for the system's work.

In announcing the test at Plant Sweatt, Mississippi Power Company President Alan R. Barton said the development of synthetic fuels "could be an insurance policy for this nation — a policy to help protect us from the instability of the world oil market.

"Mississippi Power Company is proud to be a part of this research — research which holds the potential of long-term benefits not only for southeast Mississippi but for the nation as a whole," he added.

Barton said the test at Plant Sweatt will be conducted over a six-week period using three types of synthetic fuel. The overall cost of the project is estimated at $2.2 million, with $1.5 million to be paid by EPRI and some $700,000 to be provided by the Southern electric system. The system's contribution, however, is expected to be offset completely because the fuel to generate electricity during the test will be provided by EPRI — thus eliminating any additional cost burden on the customers of Mississippi Power Company.

Dr. William B. Harrison, senior vice president in charge of research and development at Southern Company Services, said, "If these liquids prove to be suitable replacements for conventional oil, long-term supplies of fuel for oil-fired units like those at Plant Sweatt could be assured.

"The question then would center on economics," he continued. "And though current prices for oil still are well below the expected cost of producing synthetic fuels on a commercial basis, improvements in synfuel technology or higher prices for crude oil could make liquid fuels from coal more attractive in the years ahead."

tive in the years ahead."

Harrison noted that earlier this year The Southern Company's coal research center near Wilsonville, Ala., achieved a major technological advance in synthetic fuel production. The advance — which significantly reduces the amount of hydrogen consumed in producing synthetic liquids — is expected to make the cost of these fuels more competitive with conventional energy sources.

Judge Vlahos discusses aspects of sentencing

Circuit Judge Kosta Vlahos, Second Judicial District, was guest speaker for the August 11 meeting of Harrison-Hancock Counties Legal Services Association.

Vlahos discussed various factors considered in the sentencing process, stressing that individualized consideration is perhaps the most important of these factors.

He noted that although in the past rehabilitation was emphasized, the recent trend is that sentencing is viewed as a means to punish criminals and separate them from society.

He pointed out that 90 percent of the persons indicted plead guilty, 10 percent are tried, with about 5 to 7 percent of those cases tried reaching media and public attention, which is not indicative of the norm.

Judge Vlahos encouraged all citizens to become educated concerning the sentencing process and encouraged expression of public opinion, based on that knowledge, concerning sentences rendered.

Chairman Billie Ruddick announced that applications are being accepted for the N.A.S. Basic Course which begins September 13 and ends November 29.

The 12-week study course on all areas of the law is designed to educate legal secretaries and the general public. Interested persons should promptly contact Ms. Ruddick, 263-2241.

Sarah Brannon of Laurel, treasurer of the Mississippi Association of Legal Secretaries, and Sheila Ladner, employed with Gex, Gex & Phillips, Bay St. Louis, were guests at the meeting.

The September 8 meeting will be held at the Western Sizzlin Steak House, Courthouse Road, Gulfport, at 8:30 p.m.

Persons who are not members of the association but are interested in attending should contact Elizabeth Mallini, 467-6515 or 374-8383.

NEW SWEETNER

A new sugar substitute is now available. Aspartame, marketed under the trade name Equal, has been approved by the U.S. Food and Drug Administration.

Equal is endorsed by the American Diabetes Association for people with diabetes and for people on sodium and carbohydrate restricted diets. Its active sweetening ingredient is NutraSweet, a brand of aspartame. NutraSweet is the first sweetener in 25 years to win FDA approval, and Equal is the first widely available consumer product to contain NutraSweet.

Unlike non-nutritive artificial sweeteners such as saccharin, NutraSweet consists of protein components identical to ones found in nature, and is metabolized as protein. Because it is not a carbohydrate, it does not promote tooth decay.

Equal combines NutraSweet with a bulking agent, lactose, and a small amount of silicone dioxide to provide form and allow free flow from the packet. It has a sweet flavor with not bitter or metallic aftertaste.

In taste tests conducted among consumers and professional taste-testers, Equal was almost indistinguishable from sugar in foods and beverages.

Equal can be used in many ways:

—For cooked fruits such as applesauce, apricots, prunes and baked apples, add Equal to taste after cooking.

—Mousses, puddings and gelatins are delicious and low in calories when you make them with Equal.

—Prepare raw cranberry relish adding Equal to taste.

—For fresh fruits such as grapefruit, cereal, coffee, tea or unsweetened fruit drinks, add Equal directly.

—Fresh, homemade eggnog made with Equal is delicious.

Although aspartame has the same food value as regular sugar, it is about 180 times sweeter than ordinary sugar.

A teaspoon of sugar has 18 calories; aspartame would provide only one-tenth of a calorie for the same amount of sweetness in a teaspoon of sugar.

Equal is not suitable in preparation that requires cooking at high temperatures. It tends to lose sweetness in over or range heat. Also, because Equal fails to provide the necessary bulk and structure in homebaked foods such as cakes, breads and many cookies, it is not recommended for those uses.

Equal can be used by almost everyone, except for people with phenylketonuria (PKU), an inborn metabolic defect, who must restrict their intake of protein foods containing phenylalanine. Because phenylalanine is one of the amino acids in NutraSweet, all Equal packages indicate its presence on the ingredient panel.

HOME CANNERS
The U.S. Department of Agriculture has recently announced some changes in the way tomatoes should be canned at home.

In the past, home canners have packed raw tomatoes into jars and then processed them in a boiling water bath.

Recent research shows that the microorganism Bacillus licheniformis can grow in traditionally canned tomatoes which have a low vacuum or poor seal.

Bacillus licheniformis feeds on acid and can change a high acid food like tomatoes to a low acid food.

Therefore, with the old canning method, there is potential for the growth of the deadly botulin toxin.

New recommendations delete raw packing of tomatoes. Instead, peeled and quartered tomatoes are brought to a boil before packing into hot glass jars. Pint jars are then processed in a water bath canner for 35 minutes; quarts, 45 minutes.

The processing time for tomato juice has also been increased to 35 minutes for both pints and quarts.

USDA has also increased the processing times for applesauce and fruit purees to 20 minutes for both pints and quarts. This is based on the high heat resistance of the mold Byssoschlamys Fulva which is associated with these products.

These new recommendations will be included in a revised edition of the Home Canning and Freezing Bulletin published by USDA. It will be available for purchase after June 6 for $2.50 through the Consumer Information Service in Pueblo, Colo.

More information concerning food preservation is available through the County Extension Home Economist office, 405 Necaise Ave., Bay St. Louis, telephone 467-5456.

CAFFEINE

By now, almost everyone is aware that coffee, tea and cocoa contain caffeine. But many sodas do also and children who consume several cans a day may be taking in as much caffeine, per pound of bodyweight, as adults who are hooked on coffee. The following chart gives the caffeine content of popular soft drinks. Soft drinks with caffeine (milligrams per 12-ounce can) are:

- Diet Rite, 36
- RC Cola, 36
- Pepsi Light, 36
- Diet Pepsi, 36
- Pepsi-Cola, 38
- Dr. Pepper, 40
- Mr. Pibb, 40
- Sunkist Orange, 40
- Shasta Diet Cola, 44
- Shasta Cola, 44
- Shasta Cherry Cola, 44
- Coca-Cola, 45
- Tab, 46
- Mountain Dew, 54
- Sugar-Free Mr. Pibb, 60
- Canada Dry Ginger Ale, 60

Hire's Root Beer, Fresca, Fanta soft drinks, 7-Up, and RC 100 are caffeine free, according to Good Health Digest (July, 1982). For comparison, a 5-ounce cup of coffee contains 100-120 mgs. of caffeine.

WADE O. SMITH

As your Representative I helped pass H.B. 4, the Education Reform Act of 1982. This bill provides for early childhood education and also increases teacher's pay for this year an average of 9-10%. I have supported every teacher's pay increase every session since I have been your Representative. I have been absent only 2 days in 16 years, in the House.

I am committed to supporting appropriations to increase the teachers pay scale to the average of the other Southern States.

I have been concerned about the high unemployment and people out of work and have done something about it. During this past session I helped pass H.B. 711 and S.B. 2528. These bills will stimulate business and industrial growth. New businesses and old ones expanding will be exempted from sales and use taxes under certain criteria and Income Tax Credit of $1,000 per year for each employee hired for a period of 10 years.

When re-elected, I will introduce bills:

1. To restore mineral rights to the surface owners after 10 years when owned by someone other than the surface owner.
2. A bill to set the assessment ratio at 15% of the appraised value on homes and land, and 30% of the appraised value on automobiles and utilities. If this is not done homeowners will be paying twice as high taxes on their homes after the reappraisal law becomes effective next year.
3. I will sponsor a bill to increase the pay of retirees of the Mississippi Public Employees retirement system. This bill would increase the pay formula from 1% to 2%.
4. A bill to provide that when any public official of the State of Mississippi, County, or City is indicted by the Federal government, or the State of Mississippi for dealing drugs, they would be automatically suspended from office until they are proven innocent or guilty.

YOU HAVE A RIGHT TO KNOW WHAT I CARE ABOUT

ROBERT B. PETERSON, JR.
FOR BEAT 1 SUPERVISOR

"Happy is the house that shelters a friend". Ralph Waldo Emerson

"I was born and reared in Beat One and this is where I chose to raise my family. I'd like you to meet my son Bubby, my wife, Joyce, my daughter Cindy and our "Tasha". Our belief in Hancock County can be measured in terms of generations not what's in it for me now."

A Personal Statement:

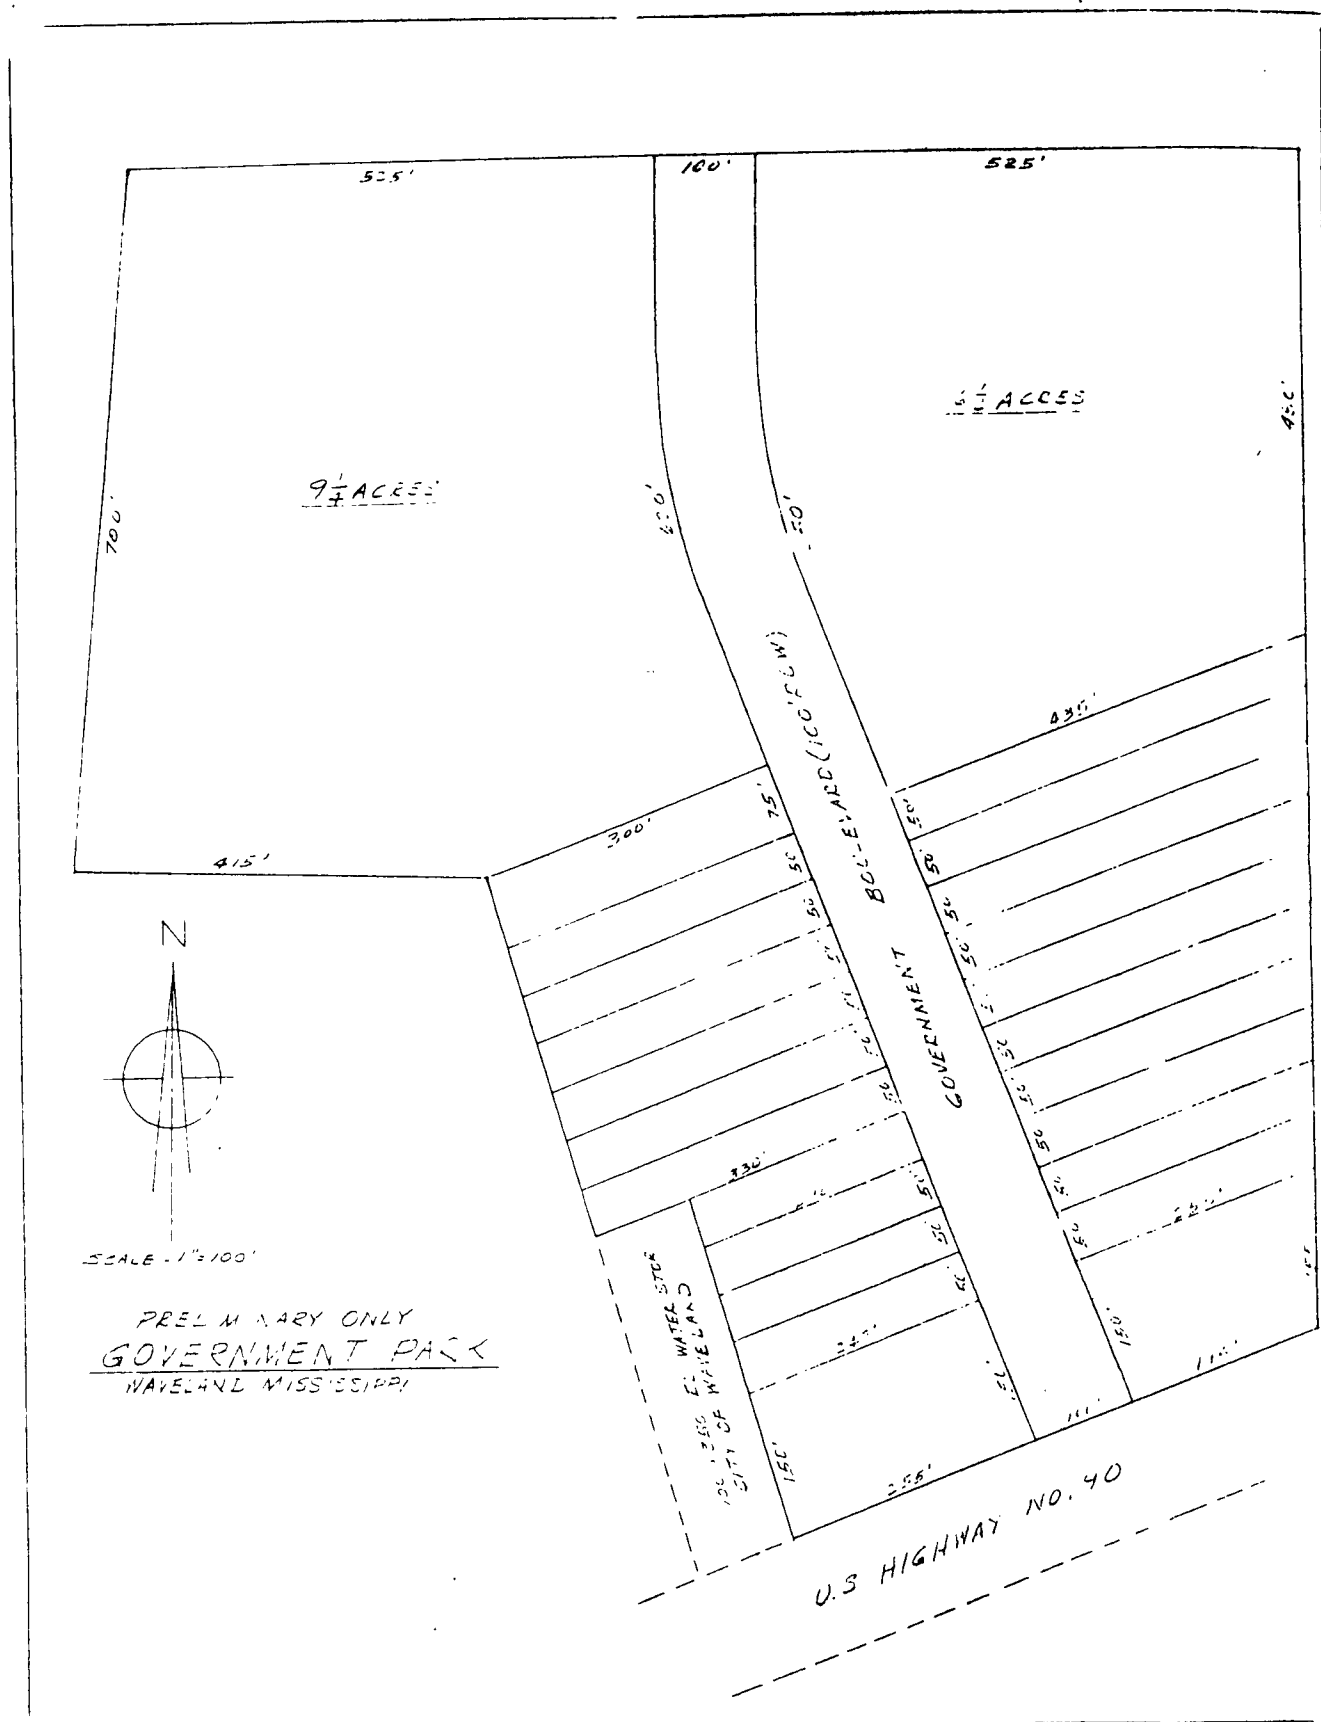

1. "In the recent past the position of Beat 1 Supervisor has been considered a part-time job, even a hobby. I shall not present a 'gift list' every four years. The job, as I see it, is a full time position responsible to the taxpayers of Beat 1. It will be the only job I have."
2. "Because being Beat 1 Supervisor will be my only job, I shall use time wisely to evaluate the most economical and effective ways of spending our hard earned tax dollars. As you know, the drainage problems, road problems and the beach require immediate attention."
3. "I'm sure you agree the time is now for the taxpayers of Beat 1 to have a Supervisor who is on the job every day and will be available to answer calls and questions 24 hours a day, seven days a week. You deserve this and it is your right to expect it."
4. "The problems of Beat 1 will be met every day...not just when it's convenient. There will be strong, steady improvement in the area where we live. This will be my commitment to you as Supervisor of Beat 1. It will not be necessary to have a long list of needs every four years when planning is done day to day, week to week."

I wish to thank everyone for their support in the Primary Election. With all of us pulling together on August 23rd we can again make the post of Beat 1 Supervisor a meaningful and responsible position. I look forward to talking with you before election day.

My Sincere Thanks,

ROBERT B. PETERSON, JR.

Preliminary drawing of proposed Government Park commercial subdivision in Waveland

not consolidate.

Haas noted in return for the some 16 acre land donation Auderer asks the governments construct and maintain Government Boulevard with proper sewerage, water lines and drainage for the government offices and his lots.

Auderer proposes donating the boulevard property also, Haas noted.

Finally, the developer asks that the involved local entities assist in formal dedication of Government Park, obtaining State Highway Department cooperation in establishing a US-90 intersection controlled with a traffic light and he receiving any tax advantages in the free land transfer.

Mayor John Longo of Waveland said Wednesday morning that he was not aware of the proposal, but stated, "It sounds like Mr. Auderer is being very generous. I like the idea."

"I obviously don't speak for the board because they haven't reviewed it yet, but every consideration should be given to this," he said.

"I've been in politics 20 years and this is the first time I've heard anyone offering $200,000 of property for free," Longo reported.

"There is a possibility that a lot of good things could come out of this. Waveland's eventually going to need a new city hall," he said.

The mayor laughed regarding the consolidation proposal and said he 'didn't know' if Bay St. Louis officials would agree with that condition.

But he noted all local governments now need new and larger office buildings.

At the Monday morning supervisors' meeting, A.A. (Dolph) Kellar, board president, stated, "I don't see how this offer can be turned down."

"I appreciate this and request the board take this under advisement so we can meet with city officials to see what we can work out," he suggested.

James Travirca, District Five supervisor, reported the county plans to build a new jail and tax assessor-collector offices.

Haas said the county's 'piecemeal' plans for building new facilities will cost 'millions' of additional dollars and eventually again result in cramped conditions.

He reported the proposal is offering property in 'wild woods' where expansions could easily be made.

The attorney noted Auderer is not completely altruistic in his offer because the Courthouse and city hall relocations would enhance the value of surrounding property.

"Of course we realize that these proposals have far reaching political, economic and social implications, but we feel that the county is now on a threshold of unprecedented program, if not already in the midst of the same, and such proposals should be considered by this board and city councils of this county," the proposal states.

Kiln man arrested for robbery

By JUNE M. HEYDT

A Kiln man was arrested and charged with six counts of armed robbery and is presently in the Jefferson Parish Jail under a $300,000 local bond and a million dollar federal bond, according to Detective Dennis Gordon of the Jefferson Parish sheriff's department.

The Kiln man has been under surveillance for over a month by the Hancock County Sheriff's department and was arrested in Jefferson Parish Tuesday, according to Delbert Seay, Hancock investigator.

"Jefferson Parish authorities contacted us about five or six weeks ago on suspicion of a person living in our area," said Seay.

Rick E. Ott Jr., Route 3, Box 912, Bay St. Louis was arrested on charges of allegedly robbing six banks.

Dates of the robberies ranged from July 2, 1982 to June 16, 1983 and all took place in Metairie, La.

Ott has admitted to robbing the banks, said Seay.

A search warrant was issued on Aug. 16 on Ott's home. Clothing and a brief case used in the robberies along with the cap and glasses he wore were retrieved and turned over to the Jefferson Parish police.

Ott, who pulled a gun on the tellers at the banks, was charged with six counts of armed bank robbery.

Senior citizens praise supervisors

By JUNE M. HEYDT

A group of senior citizens attended the Hancock County Board of Supervisors meeting Monday to express how much they appreciated the help the board has rendered.

The senior citizens program has been given 2.5 percent of the revenue sharing funds amounting to $12,705.

At the revenue sharing hearing conducted immediately after the regular board meeting, Eve McDonald, representing the senior citizens said, "We want to thank the board. Do you know we have never been turned down. We try to act conservatively with the funds we receive."

McDonald continued, "We want to commend the whole board for the way they treat the senior citizens."

Each of the representatives from the senior citizens addressed the board.

Anna Mae Ladner said, "This program has done a lot for me. If it wasn't for senior citizens, I don't know what I would have done."

Catherine S. Baxter, "I'm very proud to be 88-years-old and a senior citizen, it keeps me young."

Esther M. Travirca, "I'm going on 80. If it wasn't for senior citizens I wouldn't make it. I look forward to Mondays when senior citizens doors are open. Saturdays and Sundays seem so long. We get hot meals, color TV, coffee and donuts. What more could we ask for, thank you ever so much."

Joseph A. Petta, "I want to thank each and everyone of you."

A. Dolph Kellar, president of the board, noted, "My mother will soon be 88 and I want the best for her. She also enjoys senior citizens."

Mary Thompson, "If it hadn't been for this program I'd probably be in the grave now."

CAMPAGNING IN HANCOCK—Displaying the front of one of his campaign brochures during a recent visit to Hancock County is John Ed Almsworth of Glen Allan who is in the Tuesday Democratic Runoff for Secretary of State. Almsworth, who finished third in the Hancock Democratic Primary, is facing Dick Molpus in the runoff. Regarding the state wetland ownership controversy, Almsworth, former state land commissioner, said he feels Mississippi owns below the mean high tide, but a survey is needed to determine the exact location of those lines and private property owners should be paid for damages if they lose any land. If elected, the candidate said he would work for a non-discriminatory voter roll purge, 'simplified' voter registration, and seek better methods investigate companies planning to issue stocks and bonds in Mississippi. THE PRYTANIA THEATRE

The Prytania Theatre in New Orleans continues its tradition of bringing decidedly off-beat, mature films to this area. So, if you're tired of the fluffy teenage sex comedies or mindless action motion pictures, of summer examine this schedule for the Prytania.

(1) Now playing through Aug. 25 is Harold Pinter's "Betrayal." Starring Academy Award winner Ben Kingsley as Robert, and "Brideshead Revisited" co-star Jeremy Irons as Jerry, "Betrayal" tells the story of a seven-year love affair between Jerry and Robert's wife. Compounding the tragedy is the fact that Jerry and Robert are best of friends.

Pinter's story is told in reverse order—from end to beginning—and the result is a disconcerting piece of work filled with memorable performances.

(2) "Say Amen, Somebody" is a documentary film dealing with gospel music. Roger Ebert of "At the Movies" (Channel 260 says, "It's terrific! Joyous, funny and unabashedly emotional. I've been lucky enough to see this movie three times. It's one of the happiest movies in a long, long time. There's no way that I can recommend it any more highly.")

A gushing review to say the least...there's got to be something to see. "Say Amen, Somebody" will play for one week only, Sept. 9-15.

(3) Sept. 16-22: A Film by Paolo and Vittorio Taviani called "The Night of Shooting Stars," which won the Special Prize at this year's Cannes Film Festival in France.

The Taviani brothers are best known for their Oscar-nominated "Padre, Padrone" from 1977. "The Night of Shooting Stars" is a grotesque fantasy shown from a childish point of view, as the German Army, during World War II, is pushed into the small village of Ruscan. Most of this film was adapted from the oral histories of many of the Tuscan villagers.

(4) "Not a Love Story" is a daring and provocative documentary dealing with pornography in its various forms. Produced by the National Film Board of Canada, "Not a Love Story" looks at the various people involved in the pornography business. "Not a Love Story" will be shown from Sept. 30-Oct. 6.

(5) On Oct. 7 through 13, the Prytania will show D.A. Pennebaker's documentary on Bob Dylan's early career entitled, "Don't Look Back." Shot in cinema-verite style, "Don't Look Back" focuses on Dylan and his friends, Joan Baez and Donovan, as they changed the course of rock-n-roll history.

(6) Franco Zeffirelli's "La Traviata" premieres on Oct. 14, with Placido Domingo and coloratura soprano Teresa Stratas in the title roles. This is a tear-inducing extravaganza which only Zeffirelli ("Romeo and Juliet") could produce.

Other films as the Prytania this month include: John Sayles' "Lianna," Ingmar Bergman's supposedly last feature film, "Fanny and Alexander," and Peter Greenaway's breathtakingly beautiful, "The Draughtsman's Contract."

The Prytania Theatre is located at 5339 Prytania Street in New Orleans. For more information you can call them at (504) 895-4513.

FILM CLIPS

A good bet at area theaters this week is "Risky Business," which is a refreshingly different kind of comedy dealing with teenage sex. No wonder since this production is the work of Steven Seidman of "Breaking Away" fame.

Also, be on the lookout for Woody Allen's new comedy/drama, "Zelig." He has, along with longtime photographer Gordon Willis, prematurely aged this current film to make it resemble some of the old newsreel footage of the 1920s. You can always look to Woody to come up with something different.

Graduate orientation scheduled at State

A special orientation session for all new graduate students and all first-time entering freshmen 25 years of age and older will be conducted Aug. 21 at Mississippi State University.

The program will begin at 1 p.m. in the lobby of Allen Hall. There is no charge to attend.

Following a welcome by members of the administration, students will be given admission information and instructions on registration," said orientation director Jimmy Abraham.

"They will then reassemble into smaller groups for informal question-and-answer sessions with academic deans, faculty, and members of the professional staff."

Abraham said the program will also include a tour of Mitchell Memorial Library and a complimentary buffet of sandwiches and snacks.

Advanced registration is encouraged, Abraham emphasized.

Additional information on the session may be obtained by writing the Office of College and School Relations, Box NN, Mississippi State, Miss. 39762, or telephoning 325-3076.

Scouts sell property

The New Orleans Area Council, Boy Scouts of America, reports that Camp Salmen near Slidell, La. has been sold and the buyer has agreed to retain the Salmen Lodge as close to its original status as possible.

Camp Salmen was given to the New Orleans Area Council by Frederick W. Salmen May 29, 1924 with the understanding that if it were not used for camping by Boy Scouts it would be returned to the Salmen Family.

On March 29, 1973 the deed to Camp Salmen was given to the New Orleans Area Council and the Reservation near Slidell, Miss. of over 1,400 acres was named Salmen Scout Reservation.

Camping for Scout Troops is available within 5 miles of Camp Salmen. For information as to the location and facilities available, scout masters should call the Boy Scout office, 837-0780.

Have you ever wondered where your money goes that you spend for postage? Many people seem to think that most of it goes for equipment and maintenance costs.

Others think that it goes for retirement, hospitalization and other various employees benefits.

Well, since the Postal Service's fiscal year ends in just seven weeks, it seems appropriate that something should be printed to inform our customers just where their stamp money goes.

During the last fiscal year the total income for the USPS was $23,627.8 million while total expenses were $22,826.2 million, showing a net profit of $801.6 million.

This is only the second time since enactment of the Postal Reorganization Act 12 years ago that the USPS ended the fiscal year with a net income.

This is a major milestone for us, since one of the main goals under this reorganization is to establish a national postal system that is no longer ridden with deficits that burden the tax paying public.

You will be glad to know that less than three percent of our total income was subsidized by the taxpayers, and this was only to pay for the providing of various mail services at reduced rates (e.g., by non-profit organizations).

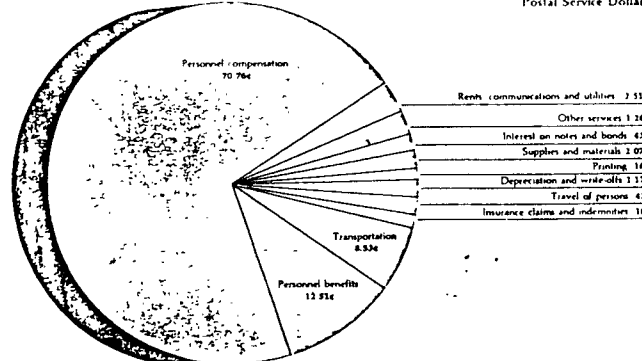

You will also be pleased to know that because of our increased productivity and modern work practices, the Postmaster General has recently announced that there should be no postage increases until at earliest October of 1984.

So this should show that the Postal Service is striving to keep ahead of inflation, and still provide efficient mail service at an affordable price.

Next time, we plan to illustrate what a real bargain your Postal Service is, as compared to the postage rates of the other major countries of the world.

Meanwhile, the chart shows how your Postal Service dollar is divided.

FISHING Facts & Fancies

KNOW YOUR LINE

Though many fishermen don't realize it, it's a fact that nylon fishing line actually absorbs water, and becomes limper in the process. Water can lower the break strength of line by as much as 15 percent. Therefore, when you go fishing, it's important to use good tackle that can deal with abrasion and shock resistance, limpness, good visibility and stretch.

 Technicians at Du Pont, maker of "Stren," fishing line, America's leading selling brand, suggest that you test your line when it's wet. To test line strength, put on a pair of gloves and try to break a section of line with an overhand knot tied in it. If it breaks easily, repeat this process moving up the line until it doesn't break. Remember that lighter line — four, six or eight pound test — will break more easily.

 Most top quality lines, like "Stren," have a safety factor built in and are designed for a wide range of fishing conditions. So, before you go fishing this year, make sure your equipment is in top shape —

Youth soccer board meeting set tonight

Bay Area Youth Soccer has rescheduled its board meeting to tonight at 7:30 p.m. at the Education Building, Main Street United Methodist Church.

Since soccer is now established in this area, registration will be centralized at three locations instead of at each individual school in the area.

Registration will begin on Saturday, Aug. 27 (tentatively) and conclude on Tuesday evening, Aug. 30.

Last year BAYS had 26

teams, two of which were girls' teams.

"This year we hope to expand the program to 30 teams including at least three girls' teams and a Select U-14 boys' team," said Tom Demboski, league president.

"This is a good sport for all boys and girls as it provides good physical exercise with minimal risk of injury. We look forward to increased community support as we move forward into our second season as an independent club," he added.

Commission chair seeking authority to set hunt seasons

As the newly-elected chairman of the Mississippi Commission on Wildlife Conservation, Dr. Edmund Keiser has two goals: to free the Mississippi Department of Wildlife Conservation from political influence and to obtain for the Department the full authority to set hunting and fishing season, regulations and bag limits in the state.

"Mississippi is one of the few states in the Union where the legislature still controls hunting policies," said Dr. Keiser, who is also chairman and professor of biology at The University of Mississippi. Echoing an earlier statement released by the Department, Dr. Keiser said that because the Department employs a highly trained technical staff, it is clearly "the most reliable and competent agency in the state for efficient management of game and fish populations."

This is not the first time the commission has tried to gain control of game and fish management in the state, he said. Yet Dr. Keiser remains optimistic. Public support for the commission is exceptionally strong this year, and Dr. Keiser is hoping that the added backing will encourage the state legislature to grant the Wildlife Department full authority to carry out responsible management and enforcement programs based on wildlife population data and the judgement of its technical staff.

"The people in Mississippi don't want the legislature wasting the taxpayers' money and time in deciding things like bag limits or season dates," he said, noting that open monthly meetings of the commission and frequent public hearings provide ample opportunities for private citizens to have their views and opinions made known.

Although he is fresh to the chairman's post, Dr. Keiser is not new to the duties of the conservation commission. He has been a member of the five-man board since 1978, when he was selected by then-governor Cliff Finch, and was reappointed in 1980 by Gov. William Winter.

A noted authority on wildlife — particularly in the area of amphibians and reptiles — Dr. Keiser is also an active member of the Mississippi Wildlife Heritage Committee, which seeks to obtain wildlands in Mississippi for hunting, fishing and public recreation.

The Ole Miss professor has been listed in numerous biographical books, including Who's Who in the World, Who's Who in America, Directory of Distinguished Americans, International Who's Who of Intellectuals, Men of Achievement, and Who's Who in Frontier Science and Technology.

He is an elected Fellow of the Explorer's Club and has authored 69 papers, including a 16-page manual on Mississippi's poisonous snakes published recently as an insert to "Mississippi Outdoors."

Other members of the Commission on Wildlife Conservation include Jim Hunter McCaleb of Cleveland; A.G. Williams of Osyka; Lonnie Tadlock of Morton; and Joseph W. Gex of Bay St. Louis.

FISHIN' TIPS

from ... Tom Mann

QUESTIONS FROM THE MAIL BAG

MISTER TOM: A couple of guys catch a lot of bass from submerged stumps marked by metal rods they drove into them. I cast to these same rods and get nothing. Why?—Puzzled Pete

HELLO PETE: Some sneaky stump markers will drive their rods five to ten feet to the left or right of a stump to fool other fishermen. Try casting a plastic worm to both sides of the rods and see how far away the stump is when you locate it. Once you find their key you'll know how to fish all their stumps.

DEAR TOM: When I see a fallen tree in the water, I never know whether to start casting at the tip or butt. Which?—Castin' Cal

HELLO CAL: I like to use a plastic jellyworm to fish the bottom right off the tip where the water is deepest ... then a deep-running crank bait like a Rooter ... next a Little George spinner about midway ... and finally a Top Mann surface spinner in the shallow water near the butt. Tip to butt, Cal, is my preference.

TOMM MANN: I use one anchor tied to the bow of my boat. My partner says I should have one on the stern, too. Why?—Davey Potts

HELLO DAVEY: Tom has only one M, but you need two anchors. Otherwise your boat will swing about and neither of you can properly fish a piece of cover. Your boat should be perpendicular to the hole you are fishing, at all times.

Wildlife Commission reports on beaver control, odd boats

BEAVER CONTROL

Within the next few weeks, the Mississippi Department of Wildlife Conservation will be contracting with licensed trappers to carry out beaver control work on private lands across the state, according to an agency spokesman.

Through competitive bids the department will select trappers to work in northern and southern portions of the state trapping beaver on lands where the animal is a problem.

The dividing line will be the northern boundary of Lauderdale, Newton, Scott, Rankin, Hinds, and Warren counties.

"Beginning Sept. 1, our agency will accept only written requests from landowners for beaver control work to be done on their property," explained Seth Mott, chief of the department's game division.

"Requests will be numbered as they are received by our office, and trappers will be assigned to landowners according to the request number.

The work will be done on a first-come first-served arrangement," Mott said.

He emphasized that the department will receive only requests in writing. Requests by telephone are not permitted.

According to Mott those landowners receiving trapping assistance will be eligible for not more than eight half-days of trapper time that must be carried out in not more than seven consecutive calendar days.

Each landowner must sign a release form before trapping begins.

Mott said that all beaver control trapping will be conducted from Oct. 1 through Dec. 2, and from Feb. 15 through Mar. 15 as funds permit.

Some $25,000 was appropriated by the last session of the Legislature for beaver control work.

Landowners interested in the program should submit their written requests to the Department of Wildlife Conservation, Game Division, P.O. Box 451, Jackson, Ms 39205.

could be attributed to unconventional crafts," said Elizabeth Raymond, state boating law administrator.

Mrs. Raymond said that three deaths resulted from use of commercial venture inner-tubes, one from an amphibcar, and three from other type crafts.

She advised that any U.S. Coast Guard approved life preserver, buoyant vest, or ring buoy will meet legal requirements. It must be on good condition, accessible, and of appropriate size for the person wearing it.

An approved buoyant cushion may be carried on board the craft instead of a wearable device.

Mrs. Raymond said that water craft regulations are statutory law. If a violation is committed the craft user is subject to a fine.

Nutritionist recommends:

Offset calorie splurge with exercise

By Melissa Mixon
Nutrition Specialist
Extension Service

A dieter who splurges on a high-calorie meal or snack should not necessarily suffer a diet setback.

People can burn up those calories and keep weight down by simply increasing activity. Added exercise allows some flexibility in the number of calories consumed. Dieting in partnership with exercise also allows people to get the nutrients they need.

Nutritionists have reported that obese people are often less active than people of normal weight, even though their food intake is about the same or even less.

In other words, exercise can really pay off. Exercise also can help keep pounds off after people reach desired weight goals.

People with only a few pounds to shed can do it by being a little more active and eating a little less than usual.

But those determined to lose a lot of weight should try combining an activity, such as dancing, walking, or bicycling, with a moderate decrease in caloric intake.

It's a myth that exercise increases the appetite so much that it prevents weight loss. In fact, the President's Council on Physical Fitness and Sports notes that moderate exercise does not increase the appetite of obese people.

Before starting an exercise program, however, check with a doctor to help determine what type is best for your age and general physical condition.

The President's Council on Physical Fitness and Sports recommends activities that are enjoyable, convenient, and that can be performed regularly.

Gardening, jogging, swimming, bowling, ice skating, basketball, volleyball, tennis, and softball will all help reach weight-loss goals. And don't overlook walking.

It's practical and requires no special skills, training, or equipment.

Various activities can help take off pounds. The ranges of calories burned per hour and pounds of fat last per year reflect how vigorously an activity is performed.

When playing tennis, for instance, go after balls vigorously and really reach, stretch, and keep up the pace.

When bicycling, avoid an easy route and select the one which takes a struggle to pedal.

When walking, don't saunter along but pump into the stride.

Remember: The more actively people participate, the more calories they will burn.

Body size and sex also affect the number of calories burned during an activity. Individuals having a large frame and heavier weight burn up more calories than those with a small frame and low weight.

As a rule, men usually burn up more calories than women, in part because they have a more muscular body composition.

A long-term program of regular exercise is a key to effective weight control. But daily, vigorous exercise isn't always necessary, or even desirable, if the person's lifestyle has become quite sedentary.

Instead, try to get more mileage out of a daily routine. Little ways of increasing activity, such as the following 10, can add up:

—Use the stairs instead of the elevator.

—Walk or bicycle as much as possible instead of driving.

—Get off the bus one stop early, and walk the rest of the way.

—Park at the far end of the parking lot.

—Avoid the drive-up window at the bank. Walk inside instead.

—Stand rather than sit while talking on the phone.

—Take a short walk at lunchtime.

—Take advantage of household chores. Push the vacuum cleaner or the lawn mower a little harder, or mop the floor more vigorously.

—Try some sit-ups while watching TV.

—Do anything but sit still. Every extra move burns up calories.

For more joys of exercising, consider this: There's more to exercise than just losing weight. It improves appearance by firming up muscles and smoothing out curves.

But just as important, regular exercise can develop endurance, increase agility, improve posture, relieve tension, reduce high blood pressure, and may help prevent some degenerative diseases.

With regular exercise, people also may find they're more alert and productive during the day and sleep better at night.

INFLAMED NERVES

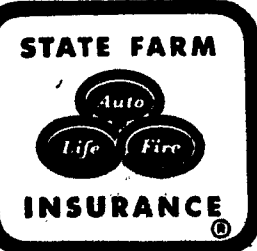

Dr. Wm. L. POWELL

These conditions occur more frequently than previously believed. When nerves in the body become inflamed, they often create conditions of acute pain. Of course, the location of the pain varies with the nerve affected and the course it travels in the body. The majority of these cases are the direct result of NERVE ROOT pressure. Structural problems within the spinal column cause nerve root pressure of the nerve fibers. Acute pain of unknown origin or even conditions such as sciatica, bursitis and muscle spasms are most often directly related to inflamed nerves. Nerve pain may be relieved by chiropractic adjustment. Chiropractic may remove the nerve root pressure and nerve root pressure is caused by nerve root pressure within the spinal column. Good health is your responsibility but we stand ready to serve you should the occasion arise.

Teacher exams, incentive pay seen as education improvements

The national focus on excellence in education will lead to a number of specific changes in state and local school programs this year, according to the chief executive of the nation's largest school administrator organization.

"Between now and next Easter we can expect to see more movement toward incentive pay for teachers, examinations for starting teachers, additional financial support for schools, and stiffer high school graduation and college entrance requirements," predicts Scott Thomson, executive director, National Association of Secdary School Principals (NASPP).

Even though teacher merit pay plans have largely failed in the past due to inadequate procedures for evaluating success, Thomson believes that six to 10 states will pass some sort of teacher incentive pay plan this year.

"We must find ways to attract the best possible candidates into teaching and keep our most talented teachers in the classroom," said Thomson. "States must assure that teachers receive salaries which are competitive with private enterprise, plus they should develop innovative ways to provide incentive pay for the truly exceptional teachers. There is no simple answer, however. This is a very complex assignment.

Thomson suggests that incentive pay plans could revolve around commitments that teachers make to improve achievement scores or the school learning environment. In order to work, such proposals must be based on logical, measurable evaluation targets.

"Such programs could well be voluntary," he remarked.

"Teachers who sought to receive incentive pay might agree to try to raise student math scores a certain level or reduce discipline cases by a certain percentage. If they reached their targets, they would receive the salary bonus. Not all teachers would participate, but those who are truly exceptional would have the opportunity to provide more help to students and to be compensated for their efforts."

Thomson also believes that the excellence focus will push two-thirds of the states to establish some type of examination system for people entering the teaching profession. Twenty-three states now have such a test.

"The examinations will focus on knowledge of basic skills, on professional teaching skills, or both," he says.

Seventy-five percent of the states will provide additional money to support quality education, Thomson believes.

"Obviously, the call for improvement will require some additional money, especially as schools strive to attract and maintain top quality teachers and to offer more complete academic programs, such as fourth year foreign languages and calculus. People are realizing that quality education is a sound investment in their communities and America."

Graduation requirements for high school and entrance requirements for college will be restored to pre-1970 levels in those states which haven't already acted to do so, according to Thomson.

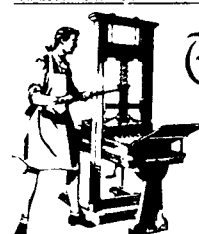

Among other 1983-84 trends in education, Thomson expects to see:

- the number of microcomputers used for instruction doubling this year so that all high schools will have at least one microcomputer;
- enrollment in music and art courses maintaining while it drops in such classes as social living and other soft electives; and

•the number of class periods offered in the school day increasing five or six rather than four or five.

"There's no doubt that America is calling for excellence in its schools," he said. "The challenge facing educators will be to provide each student with the opportunity to reach his or her greatest potential."

The Sea Coast Echo Book Review

In recognition of the college's century of academic accomplishments and in celebration of the institution's one-hundredth anniversary this spring, Belhaven College has published a limited edition history book, A History of Belhaven College.

The publication, which contains nostalgic photographs of early Belhaven, is drawn from the doctoral dissertation of James F. Gordon. The text narrates the problems, adversities, triumphs and accomplishments of the college through each of the institution's presidents.

"We are extremely proud to be able to present this on the occasion of our Centennial," said Dr. Verne Kennedy, Belhaven president. "This will serve as a permanent reminder of our celebration." Gordon's historical accounting of Belhaven's past is believed to be the only thorough compilation of the college's heritage. A former English professor at Belhaven, Gordon received the B.A. from Mississippi College, the M.A. from the University of Virginia and the Ph.D. from the University of Mississippi. He is presently a member of the Department of English at Mississippi Delta Junior College.

The book is available for purchase for $14. To order a copy, call 353-0012 or 948-0541.

Legislation authorizes compensation to employer for training veterans

U.S. Representative G. V. Montgomery of Mississippi, chairman of the House Committee on Veterans' Affairs, reports both the House and Senate have unanimously approved and sent to the President legislation to alleviate unemployment among veterans.

"The bill the House and Senate agreed upon, H. R. 2355, would authorize new on-the-job training opportunities for Vietnam and Korean veterans by paying to employers 50 percent of the veteran's starting wage, up to $10,000 per veteran, to help defray training costs," said Montgomery.

The bill provides for a maximum 9-month training period except in the case of veterans with certain service-connected disabilities who are allowed a maximum of 15 months of training.

In addition, the employer is asked to certify that, at the end of the training period, he plans to employ the veteran in the position for which he was trained.

According to Montgomery, "We urged the Budget Committee to include in the budget resolution $150 million in fiscal year 1984 and another $150 million in fiscal year 1985 to establish this two-year emergency jobs training program. We expect that the funding will be included in the appropriations continuing resolution which will be passed sometime in September."

Mike Ladner, Hancock County veterans Service Officer, said the unemployment rate among wartime veterans rose in February of this year to the highest level since World War II.

Unemployment among Vietnam veterans alone remains at levels significantly higher than among non-veterans of the same age.

In June of this year, at least 619,000 Vietnam veterans were unemployed and looking for work. Of this number, 365,000 between the ages of 25 and 44 had been out of work 15 weeks or longer.

Although recent figures from the Bureau of Labor Statistics suggest that the situation is improving, they also show that the problem persists and that the unemployment gap between veterans and non-veterans remains significant, Ladner added.

Montgomery emphasized that the job training program "is designed not only to get veterans working again, but also to narrow the gap between veterans and their civilian counterparts whose education and employment were not interrupted by military service and to do so on a short-term emergency basis in order to ride out these tough economic times that have hit all Americans so hard."

Prisoner work program a success, commissioner reports

In recent months the Mississippi Department of Corrections has received increasing numbers of inquiries about its Community Work Center (CWC) Program, reports agency director, Morris Thigpen.

"Questions about our CWC program have come from city and county officials as well as economic development foundations, civic groups and private citizens," Commissioner Thigpen reported.

"This interest has increased significantly since the passage of the $53 million prison program by the Mississippi Legislature in April," Thigpen added.

The Mississippi Department of Corrections currently administers five Community Work Centers located at Corinth, Pittsboro, Vicksburg, Magee, and Hattiesburg with a sixth facility under development at Gulfport.

Provision for the program was included in the 1976 enabling legislation creating the Mississippi Department of Corrections.

Location of these facilities, however, must receive local approval.

Thigpen stated, "The CWC program accomplishes two major goals. The centers, which house minimum risk inmates, provide a free labor pool for use by local county and state units of government. The first three months of this year alone, the trusty inmates assigned to these five centers worked a combined total of 136,880 man hours. The value of this labor exceeds $450,000."

"Secondly, the CWC program provides a gradual and systematic re-introduction of the offender into community life. The A custody or trusty inmates assigned to CWC's must pass an extensive screening process before placement into the program," he explained.

The corrections director noted the outstanding achievements of the program and praised the Community Work Center inmates at Magee for their flood relief assistance in the Jackson area.

Thigpen emphasized, "The efforts by these inmates in a public emergency graphically illustrates the important role of the Community Work Center. We are looking forward to the development of the 12 new centers provided for in our new construction program."

Top notch service on all makes of automobiles!

Let's talk about MONEY... YOUR MONEY... and building a new home at 10% annual percentage rate FINANCING

MADISON — 4 Bedrooms 2 Baths

You can save 10 years of monthly payments and as much as $58,000 on the financing of a $35,000 home. IT'S A FACT!!!

Yes, let's talk facts about building your new home... and let's talk facts about saving your money... LOTS of your money!!! To begin with, when you plan to build a new home and finance it, even a difference of only 1%, 2%, or 3% in the financing rate can, over the term of the mortgage, mean the savings of many, many thousands of your hard-earned dollars. This is where Jim Walter Homes can help you.

For example, would you believe that you can save more than $58,000 when you finance a $35,000 home with Jim Walter? IT'S TRUE... WE CAN PROVE IT!!! First, while other financing rates are as much as 11%, 12%, or 13%, Jim Walter's annual percentage rate is still ONLY 10%. Secondly, your home can be paid for in only 20, rather than 30 long, long years. And third, when you compare 13% financing of a $35,000, 30-year mortgage with Jim Walter's 20-year financing of the same amount, you'll not only save more than $58,000, your monthly payment will be nearly $50.00 less, and you'll make only 240, not 360 payments. That's only 20 years, not 30 years of mortgage payments. (A glance at the chart in this ad will show you comparisons.) Furthermore, there are no "points" or closing cost add-ons to increase what you will pay.

Jim Walter financing can be arranged FAST... In a matter of days, rather than weeks and weeks. Then, construction of your new home can begin almost immediately, almost anywhere that you own property. We'll complete the outside and, if you like, stop right there so that you can finish the interior to suit yourself at tremendous savings. Or, we'll finish the inside, up to 90% complete. Do as much or as little as you Choose from more than 20 models... Built on your property to almost any stage from the shell to 90% complete!

Art teacher Baldenhofer emphasizes self-expression

By JOE PILET
An apple for the teacher! That was the first thing 13-year-old Christine Bell painted for her instructor, Carl Baldenhofer, when she signed up for five weeks of art lessons with children's classes which are held each Saturday morning at the Waveland Culture Center.

At the end of five weeks Chrissy's progress was expressed through her ability to make realistic waves as her sail boat scudded through the coastal waters with the sand beach and green tree line in the background.

Currently the painting is on display in the foyer of the City-

County Library in Bay St. Louis.

Later it is scheduled to decorate a wall at the University of Pennsylvania in Philadelphia. This chalks up another success for the remarkable teaching ability of Baldenhofer whose reputation as both an artist and a teacher continues to grow in this locale.

Baldenhofer for many years commuted from Waveland to New Orleans. In 1968 he happily retired to make Waveland his permanent home. Impressed with the unique character and history of Hancock County, Baldenhofer worked in oils and recorded on canvas some of these historical landmarks.

In the Waveland Library may be seen a likeness of the Town Hall. That is to say the Town Hall before the structure was razed.

Town Hall was second home to the late Garfield Ladner who served as Waveland's mayor through an impressive eight terms in office.

In the office of Sea Coast Echo's publisher, Ellis Cuevas, hangs a painting of the old Woodman of the World Building — if later housed the Sea Coast Echo, and now is used as an antique arcade.

Baldenhofer also preserved for history a house owned by August Rauxet which was the site of a moving picture, "This property is Condemned".

In the office of Dr. Sidney Chevis hangs Baldenhofer's well-executed scene from the Bay-Waveland Yacht Harbor.

When Baldenhofer was asked about seven years ago to instruct a class of Senior Citizens he agreed to give it a "try," not having had any experience as a teacher.

"Teaching art has been the most satisfying and rewarding thing I've ever done," he declares.

Several of Baldenhofer's pupils have done outstanding work, have sold their canvases and have frequently been included in art shows.

Baldenhofer makes no charge during the first year for teaching Senior Citizens. After the first year his charges are nominal—the same as fees charged for the youngsters.

Of Baldenhofer's method of teaching, Chrissy Bell said:

"Mr. Carl is a quiet teacher and makes you feel at ease. He says anybody can paint if they really want to badly enough. Another thing I like about Mr. Carl was that after the first lesson which is always a pear, an apple and an orange, Mr. Carl encourages us to please ourselves—to decide what we feel like painting, and when he makes corrections or suggestions he shows you rather than tells you what he means."

"My sister, Betsy, who is 11 decided to paint a mountain. We saw the beautiful Alps when back-packing in Europe last summer. Our dad's hobby is mountain climbing and Betsy said she planned to give her painting to him," Ms. Bell continued.

Baldenhofer doesn't climb real mountains, but he says he reaches spiritual heights when his students excel.

Hairstylists association recommends 'Neo Bob' fashions for Fall-Winter

By EDGAR H. PEREZ
Bay St. Louis members of the National Hairdressers and Cosmetologists Association report the organization has recommended a 'Neo Bob' styling for the 1983 Fall-Winter season.

"Bobbed hair is making its strongest fashion comeback in years," said Herbie Pursley, proprietor of Herbie's Salon in Bay St. Louis.

"The new bobbed styles come in both layered and blunt cuts," Pursley said, adding the association's recommended styles were created to add hairfashion variety to fall-winter apparel.

Pursley, who was joined this month in an expanded

Leonard Avenue salon by his sister Rita Blaize, said, "Our cuts will be a bit more conservative than those recommended by the association."

"We will be modifying these cuts to suit the personalities and tastes of our individual clients," Ms. Blaize added.

Pursley feels the Neo Bob cuts will be well accepted by men.

"Men are ready for something different. For too long they have been forced into a simple layered look, and we feel the time is right for men to move into a more modern look," said the young stylist.

The association recommends hair designs for men with short sides, open ears and fullness on top of the head, said Pursley and Blaize, both graduates of the American Beauty College in Gulfport.

Sam Cappelle of St. Louis, Mo., styles director for the 52,000-member hairdressers association, said the Neo Bob styles which he helped create are "the fashionable coiffure for the addition of the season's new hats, berets and headwraps."

Bobbed hair has been taken through many fashion directions and revivals since it first swept the country in the 1920s, he noted.

However, despite its illustrious past, Cappelle says that the bob has never been more completely updated to current fashion as it has been in the "all-new" Neo Bob collection.

Besides its myriad of styling possibilities, the Neo Bob uses permcontrolled volume to assure true styling flexibility.

"Volumized perming techniques, including the underperm or root perm, move hair away from the head and work together with the precision cut bob to make it new, dramatic and exciting," Cappelle explained.

Bobbed hair is never more attractive than when it has a bright sheen. Coloring, staining and highlighting offer new brilliance to a dull head of hair, Cappelle said.

The blonde bob revives the memory of Marilyn Monroe, whose style has become fashionable through designer dresses, jewelry and perfume. The glamorous star of the 50s is the subject of a current British stage musical, scheduled to come to Broadway next year.

In addition to the Neo Bob in various lengths and styles, the collection offers an answer to the growing interest in short hair — The Ultra Cut, an open-ended, brief style designed to highlight the facial bone structure and add extra flair to fashion's tailored looks.

In addition to Cappelle, the new Fall-Winter hairfashions were created by Fall-Winter Coiffure Design Committee members Diana McKeever of Helena, Mont. and Lonny Eagle of Hollywood, Fla.

The new hairfashion collection was premiered this summer at HAIR-USA showings at the Washington Hilton Hotel, Washington, D.C.

NATIONAL HAIRDRESSERS—The Shoulder Bob is permed and conditioned for wave and sheen, left. The Ultra Cut, right, is a brief, tailored statement designed to satisfy the growing interest in short hair.

FALL-WINTER 1983-84—The Male Cut features brief sides and fullness on top of the head.

BIRDIE IN THE BAY—Bye, Bye, Birdie, the musical loosely based on the story of rock-and-roll legend Elvis Presley's induction into the U.S. Army, continues at the Bay St. Louis Little Theatre this week during the sixth anniversary of Presley's death. Rick Rotundo is featured as the drafted musical heart-throb Conrad Birdie and among his admirers in the cast are, from left, Leslie Gleber, Maria Benvenuti, Aliceln Schwabacher and Julie Gooch. Curtain times are at 8:15 p.m. tonight, Friday and Saturday at the Boardman Street Playhouse. The theatre is also featuring a lobby exhibit of the multi-media art works of Elizabeth Holmes who is producer of 'Birdie.'

USM prepared for 73rd year

The academic year of 1983-84 is looked on by officials at the University of Southern Mississippi with optimism and anticipation.

The past three fall semesters have yielded record enrollment increases in the face of predicted declining enrollments on a national and sometimes a state basis.

Enrollment at USM has increased by seven percent for the summer semester reversing a trend of declining enrollments occurring over the past two summers.

This fall male students at USM and all other universities will be required to complete a Statement of Draft Registration Compliance prior to receiving any Federal Student Aid.

This form will be available at registration and is part of all loan applications. In addition the Department of Education has new requirements for all universities for students receiving financial aid to meet new and tighter academic guidelines.

Applications are currently available for 1984 high school seniors who are interested in four-year Army ROTC Scholarships.

These scholarships are awarded on a competitive basis to men and women who are planning to enter Army ROTC as college freshmen.

In addition to tuition these awards cover numerous other costs.

Southern Exposure, USM's popular song and dance troupe has set audition dates for Sept. 5-6, on campus at Bennett Auditorium, according to Timothy Breland, director. The troupe performs throughout the Gulf South and is slated for performances at the World's Fair in New Orleans during 1984.

Students planning to enroll in graduate school in Education and Psychology will have the option of using scores from the NTE or the Miller Analogy Test in lieu of GRE scores, according to Dr. Robert T. van Aller, dean of the Graduate School.

This option is only available for the master's and specialist's programs and not for the doctoral programs in education and psychology.

Dormitories will open Aug. 27 for students with specific room assignments and on Aug. 28 for students who have only been assigned to a dormitory and no specific room.

Fall registration at USM will be held in Reed Green Coliseum Aug. 28 from 1-6:30 p.m. and from 8 a.m. until 6:30 p.m. on Aug. 29-30.

Classes will begin Aug. 31, at 8 a.m.

Identification cards will be required for students to register. Advance identification card production began on Aug. 1 in the USM Photo Service and will continue during registration in the Speech and hearing Building, Room 102.

Returning students to USM will note a number of changes and items of interest that have occurred during the summer. Of particular note are items relating to the academic areas of USM.

The graduate School of Social Work has received reaffirmation of its accreditation by the Council on Social Work Education for a full term of seven years. Geraldine Parish has been appointed assistant to the Dean of Social Work.

The Department of Aerospace Studies will be under the direction of Colonel Joseph E. Kinnan. He will be chairman of that department. Dr. Terry Harper has been named Dean of the College of Liberal Arts. Dr. Dennis R. Jones has been appointed assistant professor of journalism and he will also be advisor to the student newspaper, The Student Printz.

In the School of Home Economics, Dr. Cynthia Esterling has been named chairman of the Department of Environmental Design and Dr. Kay Clayton has been appointed chairman of the Department of Family Life Studies and Home Economics Education. Student Ricky L. Wyatt was elected Southern Regional Director of the International Food Service Executives Association.

Students in business education will have the advantage of new equipment in the fall with the addition of four TRS 80 Model 4 microcomputers with letter quality printers for use in word processing instruction. A computer lab has been added to the Curriculum Materials Center to assist teacher education students in the College Education and Psychology.

Two assistant deans have been named in the School of Nursing. Professor Gerry Cadenhead will be an assistant responsible for Baccalaureate Nursing and nursing programs at Meridian and Gulf Park. Professor Martha Wittenauer, assistant dean, will be responsible for the graduate and instructional resource programs.

A new School of Music has been created in the College of Fine Arts. The Art Department will have a new chairman, William C. Abbott, Jr. Janet Summer Prieur will join the faculty of the Department of Theatre and Dance.

Numerous productions, programs and presentations are planned for the College of Fine Arts. These include Handel's "Messiah," special guest organist William Teague, and "The Merchant of Venice."

The first exhibition of the C. W. Woods Gallery will be recent paintings by Harry Ward.

Linda Stanisewski has been appointed assistant dean and Dr. Jack Wimberly named as assistant dean and coordinator of graduate studies in the College of Business Administration. In addition to these changes, there are a number of new faculty.

Several of the dormitories at USM have received a face-lift during the summer. New lobby furniture has been installed in Mississippi, Bond and Hillcrest. Hallways in Bolton Hall have been carpeted and major painting projects have been completed in Hickman, Hillcrest and Pahleng. Students residing in Pulley Hall will enjoy a new air conditioning system with individual heat-cool control in each room.

Many USM students will return to school in the fall looking for jobs to help pay for educational expenses and provide a little spending money. A special office handles student employment needs and speeds up making the proper match between student employee and local employer. Students who need part-time jobs should contact the Student Employment Office immediately on returning to campus.

The University of Southern Mississippi will begin its 73rd year in 1983. It first accepted students in 1910.

Tuition, fees stable at Pearl River College

Students attending Pearl River College this fall will pay $190 for tuition and another $30 for books.

The $220 semester total is the same fee students paid last year at the River. "We had a 12 percent increase last year and that enabled us to keep the fees the same," said Dr. Marvin R. White, PRC president.

The only increase in Pearl River fees were for the noon day meal ticket and room and board.

Morrison, the food service vendor on campus, hiked its prices by seven percent, and that increased the noon day meal ticket from $130 to $140 per semester.

Dormitory students will pay $535 for room and board which includes a five-day meal ticket. Last year dormitory students paid $500 per semester.

"You can get a quality education at a very economical price here at Pearl River," said Dr. White. PRC offers the first two years of academic work that will transfer to any college or university within the United States.

A vocational-technical program is provided for students who are interested in joining the nation's work-force within one or two years. "We strive to give our citizens the educational opportunities they need and deserve," said White.

Pearl River also provides a commuter bus system from all points within the six county district supporting PRC. The Pearl River district includes Jefferson Davis, Marion, Forrest, Lamar, Hancock and Pearl River counties.

Students attending The River this fall will pay less than half what students attending a Mississippi university will pay. Tuition for the year at PRC will be $380. Tuition at University of Southern Mississippi for the 1983-84 school year will be $1,140; at the University of Mississippi it is $1,267 and at Mississippi State it is $1,232.

Three-day registration session planned

In anticipation of another record fall enrollment, Pearl River College will stage registration over three days instead of the customary two.

According to Dr. Willis Lott, PRC's director of admissions, The River's fall registration will be conducted from Monday, Aug. 22 through Wednesday, Aug. 24. "We do not want our students to be rushed while planning their schedule," Lott said. "The additional day will allow our faculty the needed time to counsel more effectively."

Students will register according to a published alphabetical listing starting at 10 a.m. on Monday, Aug. 22. Freshman, transfer and former students will start their registration process by appointment at 8:30 a.m. on Tuesday and will continue through Wednesday, Aug. 24.

"Registration is a very important aspect of getting off to a good school year," Lott said. "That's why it's necessary that we have a registration schedule to insure an orderly and fair registration system."

Students may register after their scheduled time, but not prior to the scheduled time. "We realize many of our students work and/or commute with other students, but we will not be able to accommodate students who wish to register early," Lott said.

An orientation and testing session for all freshman and incoming transfer students will be held at 8:15 a.m. Friday, Aug. 19 in the Pearl River College Coliseum. The orientation session is required for these students before they can register.

Pearl River College's commuter buses will run during the orientation session and days of registration. Registration will close at 2 p.m. on Wednesday, Aug. 24 and late registration will begin at 8:30 a.m., Thursday, Aug. 25. Classes will begin that same Thursday at 8:15 a.m. Students may change their schedules through Wednesday, Aug. 31.

The 1983 fall registration schedule at Pearl River College is as follows. Students may determine their registration time by finding their classification (freshman, transfer or sophomore) and using the first letter of their last name.

DOUBLE COUPON SAVINGS

on MANUFACTURERS' COUPONS!

Now at Jitney Jungle...

Every manufacturers' cents-off coupon is worth TWICE as much!

Here's how it works:

Suppose you buy an item which is priced at 49¢ and you have a manufacturers' Cents Off coupon worth 10¢ toward the purchase of that same item. Then:

Regular Price.....	49¢
Less the face value of your coupon.....	10¢
Less the "DOUBLE COUPON" value at Jitney.....	10¢
You pay only.....	29¢

We will redeem all manufacturers' Cents Off coupons for DOUBLE their face value this week. Limit 1 coupon for any particular item. Limit 1 coffee and cigarette coupon. Offer limited to manufacturers' coupons of 50¢ value or less. Coupons over 50¢ will be redeemed at face value. You must purchase products in sizes specified on the coupon. This offer applies only to manufacturers' Cents Off coupons for items we carry and not to Free coupons or Jitney or Retail Food Store coupons. Amount refunded cannot exceed the cost of the item.
